Fisheries export to Bangladesh earns over $6 million within 2 months

MYANMAR'S fisheries export to Bangladesh earned more than $6 million between mid-October to the end of December in the 2021-2022 financial year.

Within over two months, the marine export sector received more than $6 million, while there was only $4.77 million within nine months of the previous FY. Thus, the marine export netted much foreign income within a few months due to the income taxes of vessels that directly export to Teknaf land port in Bangladesh.

"The exports to Bangladesh collected $4.77 million during the previous FY. We brought in more than $6 million within two months and a half of the 2021-2022FY. The income is also secured from the vessels that directly export fisheries products to the port of Bangladesh. We always look for a way to earn income for the country and submit it to the state government. We discussed with state government officials and the department carried out effective systems to bring in the foreign income much more than the previous years," said U Thet Oo, the Head of the Fisheries Department of Rakhine State.

The Sittway and Maungtau border trade camps of Rakhine State resumed operations on 14 October 2021. The department set an estimation to obtain extra income starting October and it received $5 per tonne of vessels and $50 for vessel registration. In November, it earned $1,025.59 for 11 vessels. Between October and December 2021, the 5,547.575 tonnes of freshwater fish and dried fish export generate $6,677,029.60.

Sixty-five per cent of freshwater products are exported to Bangladesh, while there is 75 per cent of freshwater Rohita. Other fish species, onion, jaggery and some seeds are also shipped to Bangladesh. Myanmar's fishery products are packaged and re-exported to the Middle East via Bangladesh.

The rice, dried anchovies, sea fish, corn, peanut and betel products of Rakhine State were exported to Bangladesh and currently, the operation is suspended, and the trade flow runs with the marine products of Yangon and upper Myanmar. The Rakhine State Fisheries Department obtained more than $6 million from the fisheries export within two months of the 2021-2022FY for the country.—Nyein Thu/GNLM

(Excerpt from the speech delivered by State Administration Council Chairman Prime Minister Senior General Min Aung Hlaing on the occasion of the six-month period in the assumption of State responsibilities on August 2021.)

The message sent by Chairman of the State Administration Council of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar Prime Minister Senior General Min Aung Hlaing to Kayin New Year Day

2 January 2022

Everybody knows the New Year ceremony has been held in auspiciousness happily and pleasantly on Thalayhtaikhokpo 1st Waxing of Pyatho yearly since BC 739 when Kayin forefathers started settlements in Myanmar. On the occasion of the Kayin New Year which has already passed the old year, I firmly believe that all would be physical and mental freshness and activeness after taking lessons from the experiences of the past.

Although all ethnic national people residing in Myanmar together have diverse customs and traditions, they all foster the family spirit and pay respect to each other. No matter how diverse their native, literature, language, religion, customs and traditions are, they all live in the same place in unison through thick and thin by sharing their future.

According to the historical evidence, all Kayin ethnic nationals residing in Myanmar are humble with honesty and peace as their nature bearing a smile each forever. They all are brave and faithful. In line with their long history, Kayin nationals possess fine traditions and customs as well as invaluable cultural heritage of their forefathers.

As Kayin State, a hub of the border trade is teeming with virgin natural scenic beauties, rich natural resources and valuable forests, it is a state with successful agricultural tasks under favourable weather. The most significant symbol of Kayin State is the River Thanlwin as well as the cultural emblem of Kayin ethnic nationals is the ceremonial bronze drum. The New Year festival, the housewarming ceremony, the new harvest feast and the festival of summoning the spirit of a dead person are famous in Kayin State and the Kayin don dance is a favourite of the people. These cultural heritages are invaluable for Kayin ethnic nationals.

Kayin ethnic nationals residing in Myanmar and all Kayin ethnic brethren from all parts of the nation have to preserve the traditions and customs in unison and hand them over to new generations. I'd like to urge new ethnic national generations of the future to continuously maintain the language, literature, culture, fine arts, customs, historical heritage, honesty, hard work, loyalty and precise acts that the forefathers of Kayin ethnic national had preserved in successive eras. If all national people from the country always sustain their fine traditions, the Union will be in perpetual existence.

Thanks to a good attitude over the country, Kayin ethnic nationals can enjoy the fruits of peace in addition to development. Improving these good results and sustaining the legacy of peace for their posterity is a historical duty of Kayin ethnics.

Currently, the State Administration Council is taking various responsibilities of the State in accord with the Constitution by adopting the five-point road map and nine political, economic and social objectives as its basic principles while expediting the efforts for peace and stability of the country, development and improvement of socio-economy of the ethnic national people with might and main.

All Kayin ethnic nationals should accept courage based on wisdom and braveness based on compassion are noble spirits, and they are heartily invited to join hands with the government in shaping a better New Year.

The government is making utmost efforts for building a Union based on democracy and federalism in accord with the aspiration of the entire national people. The basic factor to strengthen the genuine and disciplined democracy of the nation is Our Three Main National Causes—Non-disintegration of the Union, Non-disintegration of national solidarity and Perpetuation of sovereignty.

Hence, I'd like to urge all ethnic national people to continuously build the nation through their united strength.

The perpetuity of the Union, development and peace and prosperity of all ethnic nationals primarily need the strong and dynamic Union spirit and restoration of the perpetual peace in the nation. Hence, all ethnic nationals and stakeholders need to participate in these measures. The government is striving for enabling all ethnic armed organizations to sign the Nationwide Ceasefire Agreement-NCA for restoring the perpetual peace. Officials and stakeholders need to harmoniously implement the plan in unison with the true goodwill and the keen wishes.

I send this message while praying for all Kayin ethnic national brethren to be able to enjoy fruits of good wishes and welcome the pleasant New Year with noble spirit as well as for the whole country including Kayin State to have peace and stability, unity and development while happily enjoying the New Year festival.

Press release on statement of UN Under-Secretary-General for Humanitarian Affairs Martin Griffiths

It is learnt that the UN Under-Secretary-General for Humanitarian Affairs and Emergency Relief Coordinator Martin Griffiths released a statement containing five points on 26 December 2021 regarding the casualties of civilians near Moso Village of Prusho Township of Kayah State occurred on 24 December 2021.

The statement said at least 35 civilians have been killed including a child, and two workers from the Save the Children remained missing after their vehicles were attacked and burned in the incident. He condemned the grievous incident and all attacks against civilians throughout the country. He called upon the authorities to immediately commence a thorough and transparent investigation into the incident so that perpetrators can be swiftly brought to justice. He also called for Myanmar Tatmadaw and all armed groups in Myanmar to take all measures in order to protect civilians from harm.

Since Tatmadaw temporarily took over the State responsibilities under the 2008 Constitution on 1 February 2021, it adopted the least force to systematically control the protest crowds, armed attacks and violent incidents in line with the existing law and international norms. During its assumption

Passenger plane shot by KNPP members, PDF terrorists while landing at Loikaw Airport

A flight of the Myanmar National Airlines landed at Loikaw Airport at about 8:35 am yesterday.

Meanwhile, a combined team, including KNPP members and PDF terrorists, arrived in the wards and shot it down with 107mm rockets.

The flight carrying 64 passengers left for Loikaw from Yangon and landed at Loikaw Airport.

Then, the group containing KNPP members and PDF terrorists attacked the flight with four 107mm rockets from the cemetery near Bardoe Village in Daw Paw Kale Village-tract in the west of Loikaw Township.

of the State power, the State Administration Council has laid down the five-point roadmap and nine objectives for the stability of the State, the rule of law and community peace.

When the SAC makes efforts with specific aims and ambitions, the terrorist groups CRPH and NUG announced D-Day on 7 September 2021 to launch terrorist attacks across the nation along with some ethnic armed organizations and their subordinates PDF terrorists.

After their announcement, the terrorist groups accelerated their attacks on security forces in some places of Kayah, Kayah and Chin states, Sagaing and Yangon regions and they especially killed unarmed civilians and government employees, including the ones who do not support them under the name of informants, took the valuable things by forces, committed arson attacks on buildings and properties and threatened to support them. The cases expressed in the statement of UN Under-Secretary-General for Humanitarian Affairs and Emergency Relief Coordinator Martin Griffiths occurred as follows: - On the morning of 24 December, the security members of Kayah State arrived near Moso Village of Prusho Township.

When they stopped seven vehicles for security inspection but they did not stop their cars and shot them using small firearms, and ran away. Then, about 10 terrorists who were waiting on the hills of the village attacked with RPG, 40mm launcher and other arms. Therefore, security forces inevitably counter-attacked them. In the incident, KNPP and PDF terrorists, including newcomers for explosive training, were arrested dead together with one M-16, one point-22, three percussion lock firearms, seven grenades, 25 M-16 bullets, two magazines, guerilla uniforms and other related materials. The seven vehicles carrying petrol, diesel and foodstuffs collected from the villages by force for the terrorist groups were burnt.

That terrorist group also attacked the passenger flight with rockets at Loikaw airport on the same day and they ran away in their normal suits, according to the residents. The news has also announced via the State-run media channels and newspapers on 24 December 2021.

After CRPH and NUG terrorist groups declared D-Day, numerous attacks, including this incident, targeting civilians occurred in some regions of the country.

Terrorist groups colluded with unscrupulous media outlets and journalists that do not want peace and stability in the country and the plot was drawn up based on their whims and fancies to occur such misleading comments. It is here announced that the security forces strictly follow the rule of engagement-ROE and serve duties not to harm the people according to the international conventions. — MNA

Rubber price reaches around K1,000 per viss despite raw rubber entering market

ALTHOUGH raw rubber materials are entering the market, the rubber price still hit around K1,000 per viss, according to Myanmar rubber entrepreneurs.

Currently, the prevailing price of local 3 rubber fetched K990 per pound (0.45 kilograms), while the local 3 ribbed smoked sheet (RSS) hit K1,000 per pound in the market. Due to the market demand and the Kyat revaluation in the local foreign market, the rubber price is still hiking in the market, it is learnt.

There is demand from China and the dollar exchange rate against Myanmar Kyat stood at around K1,900 per dollar.

Consequently, although the resumption of the rubber plantation starting from last September and the availability of raw rubber in the market has increased, the price of rubber is unlikely to fall lower than K700 as last year due to rising market demand and international exchange rate, according to the rubber traders.

Rubber is primarily cultivated in Mon and Kayin states and Taninthayi, Bago, and Yangon regions in Myanmar.

Nevertheless, the prices of raw rubber materials aren't likely to rise to continue in the future. The local 3 or RSS5 lower quality rubbers are vastly produced in Mon State. As China is also purchasing these low-quality rubbers mostly, the price is likely to fluctuate around K1,000 per pound, the rubber trader predicted.

Regarding the trade route to China, the previous closed Chinshwehaw border trade post has permitted the re-import of industrial agricultural raw products such as sugarcane, rubber, tragacanth gum herb and cotton, making it easier to export rubber products.

Similarly, the Kyinsankyawt border post which has been shut down earlier was reopened on 26 November and the rubber is being exported through it.

Rubber is primarily cultivated in Mon and Kayin states and Taninthayi, Bago, and Yangon regions in Myanmar. As per 2018-2019 rubber seasons' data, there are over 1.628 million acres of rubber plantations in Myanmar with Mon State accounting for 497,153 acres, followed by Taninthayi Region 348,344 acres and Kayin State with 270,760 acres, according to the MRPPA.

Further, about 300,000 tonnes of rubber are produced annually across the country. Seventy per cent of rubber made in Myanmar goes to China. In addition to China, the country also shipped rubber to Singapore, Indonesia, Malaysia, Viet Nam, the Republic of Korea, India, Japan, and other countries. In the last FY 2020-21, the country generated $449.10 million from the export of raw rubber to foreign countries, according to the official statistics of the Ministry of Commerce. — NN/GNLM

New monsoon onions enter Pakokku market with price hitting around K500 per viss

THE new monsoon onions are abundantly entering the Pakokku market at the end of December and the maximum price of onion hit around K500 per viss due to the lack of demand, according to the onion traders.

The monsoon onion from Pakokku and Yesagy townships have been sold at a low price since it entered the market, making it difficult for local farmers to get a profit.

The highest and the lowest monsoon onion price are currently fixed around K400-600 per viss on 25 December and K400-K500 per viss on 27 December.

“Earlier, the onion price went up slightly as more and more the onions are being purchased. About 200,000 visses of onion have entered the market today.

But the price of onion dropped to K100 per viss in the market on the back of weak demand. The local growers are unhappy with the current prevailing price of onion,” said a local trader from Pakokku Township.

Since 2020, the onion growers have suffered extreme losses on a downward trend of the onion price. In 2021, the farmers have suffered losses again for two years constantly because the onion price is still falling in the market.

The onions are primarily grown in Mandalay, Magway and Yangon regions, Nay Pyi Taw and Shan State. — Aye Maung/GNLM

Agricultural export down by $90.7 mln as of 17 Dec

THE value of agricultural exports plunged to US$827.97 million as of 17 December in the current mini-budget period (October 2021-March 2022), indicating a drop of $90.7 million as against the year-ago period, as per the statistic of the Ministry of Commerce.

The agro exports stood at $918.75 million in the corresponding period of the 2020-2021FY.

The figures dropped only after China gave the go-ahead to border trade. China's import regulations and prevention measures for the COVID-19 caused a delay, exporters said.

The use of Yuan or Kyat in the bilateral transaction is officially allowed in the border areas between Myanmar and China in a bid to encourage trade. Therefore, trade is expected to increase in the coming months.

China constitutes 90 per cent of Myanmar's fruit and vegetable exports. During the previous financial year, the closure of border posts by China adversely affected the fruit growers.

During the mini-budget period, the coronavirus pandemic impacted the foreign demand for agricultural products, livestock, mineral and finished industrial goods. On the contrary, the exports of the fishery, forest products and other goods rose slightly.

In the exports sector, the agriculture industry performed the best, accounting for 37 per cent of overall exports. The chief items of export in the agricultural sector are rice and broken rice, pulses and beans and maize. Fruits and vegetables, sesame, dried tea leaves, sugar, and other agro products are also shipped to other countries.

Myanmar agro products are primarily exported to China, Singapore, Malaysia, the Philippines, Bangladesh, India, Indonesia, and Sri Lanka. Sometimes, the export market remains uncertain due to unsteady global demand.

The country requires specific export plans for each agro product, as they are currently exported to external markets based upon supply and demand. The G-to-G pact also ensures a strong market for the farmers. Contract farming systems, involvement of regional and state agriculture departments, exporters, traders, and some grower groups, are required to meet production targets, the Agriculture Department stated.

The Commerce Ministry is endeavouring to help farmers deal with challenges such as high input costs, procurement of pedigree seeds, high cultivation costs, and erratic weather conditions. The agricultural exports jumped to US$4.6 billion in the financial year 2020-2021, despite the downward trend in other export groups. — KK/GNLM

Firmly join hands to restore perpetual peace

ALTHOUGH all ethnic national people residing in Myanmar together have diverse customs and traditions, they all foster the family spirit and pay respect to each other. No matter how diverse their native, literature, language, religion, customs and traditions are, they all live in the same place in unison through thick and thin by sharing their future.

Based on the historical evidence, all Kayin ethnic nationals residing in entire Myanmar are humble with honesty and peace as their nature bearing a smile each forever. In line with the long history of Kayin ethnic people, they possess fine traditions and customs as well as invaluable cultural heritages of their forefathers.

Peace is not a trademark for a specific person or group. Truly, peace is a national concern. Hence, all ethnic nationals have the equal term of rights to enjoy the fruits of perpetual peace in happiness and pleasure.

All Kayin ethnic nationals across the nation have to preserve the traditions and customs. To maintain an actual situation of living beings and cultural heritages, not only Kayin ethnic nationals but all national races need to restore the perpetual peace.

The government is making utmost efforts for building a Union based on democracy and federalism in accord with the aspiration of the entire national people. The basic factor to strengthen the genuine and disciplined democracy of the nation is Our Three Main National Causes—Non-disintegration of the Union, Non-disintegration of national solidarity and Perpetuation of sovereignty.

Peace is not a trademark for a specific person or group. Truly, peace is a national concern. Hence, all ethnic nationals have the equal term of rights to enjoy the fruits of perpetual peace in happiness and pleasure.

Introduction

FIRST and foremost, please allow me to assert with all my sincerity and honesty that law is so delicate, so demanding, so difficult and so wide a subject that nobody could claim that he knows all the best about the laws. As such, there is a common and simple concept that “a good lawyer is the one who knows where to find the law, applicable and relevant to the case. Anyway, let’s study what law means? In essence, “law” is the regime that orders human activities and relations through the systematic application of the force of politically organized society or social pressure, backed by force, in such a society. It is the legal system.

Oxford Advanced Learner’s Dictionary defines the term “Law” as follows:

“Law is the whole system of rules that everyone in a country or society must obey.” According to a great philosopher, Aristotle, “Law is a form of order, good law means, therefore, good order.” Generally speaking, there are two main kinds of laws: local law or domestic law and international law. In brief, domestic law means the law of, or the law relating to one’s own country. It is also known as the law of the land. International law is “the legal principles governing the relationships between nations, more modernly, the law of international relations, embracing not only nations but also such participants as international organizations, multinational corporations, non-governmental organizations and even individuals (such as those who invoke their human rights or commit war crimes.)

Some significant legal terms and their meanings.

There are quite a number of significant legal terms and their meanings in our daily life. To mention just a few, they may be as mentioned below:

- (A) Equality before the law.
- (B) Ignorance of the law is no excuse.
- (C) Law and order.
- (D) The Rule of Law etc.

Out of those few, I would like to emphasize the rule of law, and law and order. “Law and Order” are often equated with the rule of law, and in that equation, the punitive and deterrent functions of law tend to be emphasized. In Parliament (The Pyithu Hluttaw) when emergency powers are demanded by the “Government”, so that may uphold the rule of law, the justification invariably is that the legislative sanction for such powers is granted by proper procedure; rule of law is therefore observed both in the motives for the legislation and in the processes that are employed for the legislation.¹

Concerning the rule of law, may I explain as follows:

“The rule of law” — This phrase means equality before the law, fair play, uniformity of laws for all private citizens and public officials alike. It also means that disputes and differences will be taken to the courts and peacefully settled. Law and order are often equated with the rule of law. Therefore, I would like to say that law is a necessity for the citizens, for the organizations, for the associations, for the states etc, so as to enjoy peace, harmony and development, such as economic development, technological development etc. The law here means both the law of the land or municipal law and the international law.

In connection with the significance of the rule of law, the first Prime Minister of our independent and sovereign union, U Nu said in the address to the Parliament (The Pyithu Hluttaw) “is to base all our activities firmly on the rule of law.”² And the chairman of the State Administration Council, and the Prime Minister, Senior General Min Aung Hlaing also expresses the significance of the rule of law on every occasion, relevant, proper, and necessary.

May I assert emphatically that “law is founded on morality, and morality finds its foundation in the moral integrity of the individual? Destroy this and we destroy the law.” “Law is not, or must not be reduced to mere words in statute books and legal decisions, but is, or should be, an active, ceaseless social process that runs like a nervous system in the living society. Living laws are needed for a living society, and the bloodstream of law needs to be constantly renewed and nourished so that it may accommodate the change in its continuity, youth in its age.”³

In conclusion, may I now mention our Myanmar old saying? To express that old saying in English, even though not exactly, but in essence quite similar; it may read as follows: -

“Knowledge and wisdom safeguard our health and raise our life span.” “Luck and fortune safeguard our wealth and property.”⁴ So we must change our behaviour and follow the Health Ministry’s do’s and don’ts instructions, rules and regulations in connection with the Covid-19 pandemic. What do you say, sir?

WHO: 2022 can mark the end of COVID’s acute stage

The UN health agency chief expressed optimism during a press briefing on Wednesday that 2022 maybe the year the world ends the acute stage of the COVID-19 pandemic.

WORLD Health Organization (WHO) Director-General Tedros Ghebreyesus reminded that it was two years ago, as people gathered for New Year’s Eve celebrations, that a new global threat emerged.

Since then, 1.8 million deaths were recorded in 2020 and 3.5 million in 2021, but the actual number is much higher. There are also millions of people dealing with long-term consequences from the virus.

Tsunami of cases

Right now, Delta and Omicron are driving up cases to record numbers, leading to spikes in hospitalizations and deaths.

Tedros is “highly concerned” that the more transmissible Omicron, circulating at the same time as Delta, is leading to “a tsunami of cases”.

Earlier in the year, during meetings of the world’s biggest economies – the G7 and G20 – WHO challenged leaders to vaccinate 40 per cent of their populations by the end of 2021 and 70 per cent by the middle of 2022.

With only a couple of days left in the year, 92 out of 194 Member States missed the target.

Tedros attributed this to low-income countries receiving a limited supply for most of the year and then subsequent vaccines arriving close to expiry, without cost lives and provided the virus with opportunities to circulate unchecked and mutate”, he said.

The WHO chief warned that boosters in rich countries could cause low-income countries to July. “This is the time to rise above short-term nationalism and protect populations and economies against future variants by ending global vaccine inequity”, he said.

Successes

Early on, Tedros acknowledged that beating the new health threat would require science, solutions, and solidarity.

While elaborating on some successes, such as the development of new vaccines, which he said “represent a scientific masterclass”, the WHO official lamented that politics too often triumphed over solidarity.

“Populism, narrow nationalism and hoarding of health tools, including masks, therapeutics, diagnostics and vaccines, by a small number of countries undermined equity, and created the ideal conditions for the emergence of new variants”, Tedros said.

Moreover, misinformation and disinformation, have also been “a constant distraction, undermining science and trust in lifesaving health tools”.

He highlighted as a case in point that huge waves of infections have swept Europe and many other countries causing the unvaccinated to die disproportionately.

The unvaccinated are many times more at risk of dying from either variant.

Future

As the pandemic drags on, new variants could become fully resistant to current vaccines or past infection, necessitating vaccine adaptations.

For Tedros, as any new vaccine update could mean a new supply shortage, it is important to build up local manufacturing supply.

One way to increase production of lifesaving tools, he said, is to pool technology, as in the new WHO Bio Hub System, a mechanism to voluntarily share novel biological materials.

Tedros also pointed to the new WHO Hub for Pandemic and Epidemic Intelligence, based in Berlin.

Finally, the WHO chief called for the development of a new accord between nations, saying it would be “a key pillar” of a world better prepared to deal with the next disease.

Domestic gold price soars to K1,823,000 per tical in New Year

THE domestic gold price has mounted to K1,823,000 per tical (0.578 ounces or 0.016 kilogrammes) on New Year Eve, according to the domestic gold market.

The price of domestic gold is on the rise right now because of the rising of the international gold market and the US dollar exchange market. Currently, the US dollar exchange rate is fixed at around K1,900 per dollar in the foreign market, while the international gold gained US$1,829 per ounce.

The domestic gold price is positively linked to the international gold price and US dollar exchange rate.

The pure gold price was up to K2,220,000 per tical in September in the domestic market, while the US dollar exchange rate touches a high of above US$3,000 per dollar.

Last September, there has been a lot of demand in the gold market due to the depreciation of the kyat against the dollar, hence the gold purchase orders were accepted in an appointment system.

Besides, the shops are urged to sell only small pieces of gold bar. The association is also monitoring to stop accepting orders without raw gold material and to stop distance trading.

In January 2021, the gold price was ranged between the minimum of K1,316,000 per tical (28 January) and the maximum of K1,336,000 per tical

(6 January). It reached an all-time high of K1,410,000 per tical on 3 February and hit the minimum of K1,340,000 per tical on 2 February. In March, the rate fluctuated between the highest of K1,391,000 (25 March) and the lowest of K1,302,000 (4 March). The price has registered the highest of K1,455,000 (30 April) and the lowest of K1,389,000 (1 April). The price reached an all-time highest of K1,709,000 (12 May) and the lowest of K1,447,000 (3 May). The price moved in the maximum of K1,575,500 (11 June) and the minimum of K1,543,000 (19 June). Last month, it fluctuated between K1,562,300 (26 Jul) and K1,587,000 (9 July), the gold traders said.

According to gold traders, the price of gold reached the lowest of K1,572,800 (3 August) and the highest of K1,698,000 (31 August). The local gold reached the lowest level of K1,703,500 (1 September) and the highest level of K2,220,000 (28 September). In October, the rate ranged between 1,750,00 (27 October) and K2,030,000 (1 October).

The rate fluctuated between the highest of K1,810,000 (6 November) and the lowest of K1,768,500 (24 November). In December, the pure yellow metal price moved in the range of 1,768,500 (6 December) and 1,823,000 (29 December). — NN/GNLM

Sugar price hike rally continues on strong demand

THE price of sugarcane soared to K60,000 per tonne on the back of strong demand by sugar millers, said the sugarcane growers from Katha Township.

"The sugarcane price has risen tracking the hike in sugar price. The sugar millers made an advance purchase. This is why the sugarcane price rose to K60,000 per tonne. It was priced at only K43,000 per tonne last year," said U Myint Thein, a grower from Katha Township.

Following the price rise in sugarcane, the growers are prepping to scale up sowing acreage, he continued.

There are three sugar mills in Katha District and provide capital and technical assistance to the growers.

The sugarcane price hike rally is attributed to the rise in international sugar prices, strong and competitive demand by domestic beverage enterprises and import restrictions on sugar, the millers pointed out. Grate Wall sugar mill offered to buy 700,000 tonnes of sugarcane while Mya Taungtha mill and another mill proposed to purchase more than 60,000 tonnes of sugarcane this sugarcane season. The locally produced sugarcanes have been on sale since 20 December 2021, the millers said.

The sugarcane growers in Katha and Htigyaing townships are cultivating sugarcane on a commercial scale on the eastern side of the Ayeyawady River. There are about 120,000 acres of sugarcane in the Katha District, as per the Agriculture Department.

The sugar market collapsed in 2016 and the growers turned to sesame seeds as crop substitution. Only 400,000 tonnes of sugarcane were produced across the country during the last sugarcane season, which is a drop of K100,000 tonne as against last year's rate.

Winter sugarcane growing season started in October and will finish in May.

The cultivation cost per acre is about K600,000-700,000 and an acre produces about 30 tonnes of sugarcane.

Myanmar produced about 450,000 tonnes of sugar from 440,000 acres of sugarcane plantations in the 2014-2015 financial year, over 390,000 tonnes from 390,000 acres in the 2015-2016FY, over 370,000 tonnes from 400,000 acres in the 2016-2017FY, over 500,000 tonnes from 400,000 acres in the 2017-2018FY, and 500,000 tonnes from 500,000 acres in the 2018-2019FY.

Sugar cane prices were pegged at over K50,000 per tonne in the 2015-2016FY, K45,000 in the 2016-2017FY, K41,500 in the 2017-2018FY, K38,000-40,000 in the 2018-2019FY and K40,000 in the last FY2019-2020, according to the news released online by the Ministry of Commerce. — KK/GNLM

The rate fluctuated between the highest of K1,810,000 (6 November) and the lowest of K1,768,500 (24 November). In December, the pure yellow metal price moved in the range of 1,768,500 (6 December) and 1,823,000 (29 December).

Omicron spoiling US holiday economic comeback

HOLIDAY events have been scrapped in droves, thousands of flights cancelled, cruises are now off limits: the Omicron variant has wreaked havoc in the United States, and the new year could see more issues exacerbating the worker shortage and price increases.

“We are starting to see some initial signs that Omicron is having an impact on the economy, mainly in the sectors where face to face interactions are most important,” in particular service sector businesses like bars and restaurants, Oren Klachkin of Oxford Economics told AFP in an interview.

The world’s largest economy had been poised to put Covid in the rearview mirror, but on the eve of the new year, the virus is once again playing the spoiler.

The highly contagious Omicron variant, which appeared a month ago, is causing the number of new cases to skyrocket to record levels during the holiday travel season.

After 5,013 cases were reported in US territorial waters between 15 and 29 December, compared to just 162 in the prior two weeks, health authorities warned Americans to avoid cruise travel, even for the fully vaccinated.

The cruise industry called the decision by the US Centers for Disease Control and Prevention disappointing. The warning was “particularly perplexing considering that cases identified on cruise ships consistently make up a very slim minority of the total population onboard – far fewer than on land – and the majority of those cases are asymptomatic or mild in nature,” the Cruise Lines International Association said in a statement.—AFP ■

Over 71,000 die of coronavirus in Russia in November

Russian authorities have been accused of downplaying the effects of the coronavirus pandemic. PHOTO: AFP

RUSSIA’S state statistics agency Rosstat said Thursday that more than 71,000 people died of coronavirus in the country in November, setting a new fatality record since the start of the pandemic.

Overall, 87,527 people with Covid had died in November, the state statistics agency said, adding that in 5,924 of those cases the virus was not considered the cause of death while in 71,187 cases the virus was confirmed as the cause of death.

Russian authorities have been accused of downplaying the effects of the coronavirus pandemic.

The Rosstat tally suggests deaths are much higher than according to an official government taskforce tracking the pandemic, which says the total number of Covid-19 deaths is 307,948.

Rosstat publishes figures under a broader definition for deaths linked to the virus than the taskforce.

Over the past 11 months Russia’s natural population decline stood at 945,000 people, compared to more than 574,000 over the same period last year, suggesting significantly increased excess deaths.

Russia is the country hardest-hit in Europe by the pandemic, with authorities struggling to counter widespread anti-vaccine sentiment.

Despite pleas from President Vladimir Putin and the wide availability of the home-grown Sputnik V jab, only 45 per cent of Russians are fully vaccinated.—AFP ■

Woman self-isolates in plane toilet after testing positive for Covid

A woman on a flight from Chicago to Iceland tested positive for Covid mid-air, forcing her to spend five hours in the lavatory.

Marisa Fotieo, a teacher from Michigan, said she began to have a painful throat halfway through the trip, so she decided to take a rapid test on the plane, she told NBC news.

“I just took my rapid test and I brought it into the bathroom, and within what felt like two seconds there were two lines,” she said in the interview, which indicates a positive test.

Fotieo had received two negative PCR tests prior to the flight, and is now self-isolating in Iceland.

She posted a video from the loo on TikTok, which has been viewed more than 4 million times since it was uploaded on 21 December. She was provided with food and drinks by a flight attendant for the remainder of the flight.—AFP ■

South Africa lifts curfew as Omicron wave subsides

SOUTH Africa, where the Omicron variant was detected last month, says its latest coronavirus wave has peaked without a surge in deaths or hospitalizations, enabling the country to lift a nightly curfew for the first time in 21 months.

Israel ‘leads the way’ with 4th Covid jabs for vulnerable

ISRAEL on Friday started giving fourth Covid vaccine shots to people with weakened immunity, becoming one of the first countries to do so in hopes of countering a case surge driven by the Omicron variant. The effort comes almost exactly one year after Israel began a massive vaccination drive on the back of a data-sharing accord with US pharmaceutical firm Pfizer. Israel’s health ministry on Thursday approved giving a fourth shot for immunocompromised people, the same day that authorities reported more than 4,000 new cases of the disease, a high not seen since September.

Heart transplant patients were among the first to receive the additional shots at Sheba hospital in Ramat Gan near Tel Aviv, where health workers received test injections this week.

“We had good results with the third dose which only caused secondary effects such as light, localized pain. We can’t wait to see the results of this fourth dose,” said Galia Rahav, a doctor.

Cardiologist Yael Peled said it would “increase protection against coronavirus”.

Israel on Friday also added residents of retirement homes and geriatric patients to those eligible to take the fourth dose.

“This decision was taken for fear of an increase in cases of contamination in such institutions that would endanger the health of these people,” the ministry said.

Prime Minister Naftali Bennett has said Israel, which was among the first countries in the world to offer a third shot to the general public, will be a trailblazer for the fourth jab.—AFP ■

THE Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP) agreement, the world's largest trade deal so far, enters into force on Saturday.

The mega free trade agreement has been applauded by the Asia-Pacific region as an important step toward deeper regional integration and a renewed worldwide momentum for free trade and multilateralism at a time of multiple global uncertainties.

Signed in November 2020, the RCEP groups the 10 members of the Association of South-east Asian Nations (ASEAN), as well as China, Japan, South Korea, Australia and New Zealand, covering roughly 30 per cent of the world's gross domestic product and population, and including a mixture of developed and developing countries.

The Jakarta-based ASEAN Secretariat announced in a statement early on Saturday that the RCEP agreement entered into force for Australia, Brunei, Cambodia, China, Japan, Laos, New Zealand, Singapore, Thailand and Vietnam.

In addition, the agreement will also enter into force on 1 Feb for South Korea, according to the ASEAN Secretariat.

According to the agreement, the implementation of the RCEP will begin 60 days after ratification by at least six ASEAN and at least three non-ASEAN countries, which was achieved before 2 Nov 2021.

The expeditious ratification process by signatory states "is a true reflection of our strong commitment to a fair and open multilateral trading system for the benefit of the people in the region and the world," said ASEAN Secretary-General Dato Lim Jock Hoi.

Lim noted that the RCEP reinforces regional economic integration by expanding common accumulative rules of origin, simplified customs procedures, trade facilitation, and coherent trade rules that provide greater transparency, fairness, and predictability for businesses.

"All these will translate into a significant reduction of trade costs and processing time for ASEAN businesses, especially micro, small and medium enterprises," he said.

The pact has also been hailed for its critical role to build economic resilience amid COVID-19 and improve peoples' livelihood.—Xinhua ■

CES tech show shutting down a day early amid Covid surge

THE CES tech show announced Friday that the Las Vegas event next week will go on in person but will end one day early amid the surge in Covid-19 infections.

Many high-profile participants like Amazon, BMW and Microsoft have pulled out or reduced their footprint at one of the world's largest trade fairs due to health concerns as the Omicron variant has sent US

Covid-19 cases to record levels.

CES organizers called the decision to shorten the event an additional safety measure on top of stricter health protocols.

"As the world's most influential technology event, CES is steadfast in its pledge to be the gathering place to showcase products and discuss ideas that will ultimately make our lives better," said Gary Shapiro, head of the Consumer Technology Association.

"We are shortening the show to three days and have put in place comprehensive health measures for the safety of all attendees and participants."

All attendees at the January 5-7 event must present proof of vaccination and have a negative Covid test before entering the venue.—AFP ■

Angola's state oil company to sell 30 pct of its shares from 2022

ANGOLA'S state oil company Sonangol on Thursday announced its plan to sell 30 per cent of its shares in 2022 in a process that will allow private capital to be injected into the country's largest public company.

The process could "extend for as long as it takes to adjust the company's attractiveness and the market conditions," said Edson Pongolola, the company's director of planning and control.

Pongolola added that the privatization process will not necessarily start with 30 per cent due to its complexity, but with smaller percentages depending on the attractiveness and market proposals.

Japan research body, Mitsubishi to collaborate on US fast reactor

THE Japan Atomic Energy Agency and Mitsubishi Heavy Industries Ltd. will soon sign a memorandum of understanding with a US venture firm to provide technical support for its fast reactor development project, sources close to the matter said Saturday.

The agency, which has a history of operating sodium-cooled fast reactors such as the Monju prototype fast-breeder reactor in central Japan's Fukui Prefecture and the Joyo experimental fast reactor in Ibaraki Prefecture, is considering providing operational data and designs to TerraPower, a company co-founded by Microsoft Corp. co-founder Bill Gates.

TerraPower plans to build a fast reactor with an output of 345,000 kilowatts using sodium as a coolant in the state of Wyoming from 2024. The US Department of Energy is providing funding for the project, which is expected to be completed in 2028.

While the specifics of the collaboration are still being discussed, the agency is also considering using its sodium experimental facility Athena in Ibaraki Prefecture to develop safety technology, according to the sources.

Japan is pursuing a nuclear fuel recycling policy in which plutonium extracted from spent nuclear fuel at power plants is reused, with fast reactors playing a key role in the plan.

But domestic development has come to a halt following the decommissioning of the Monju reactor, which was intended to be a fast reactor that

Philippine Airlines exits US bankruptcy

PHILIPPINE Airlines has said it has emerged from bankruptcy after a US court approved its plan to slash up to $2 billion in debt and obtain additional capital.

The national carrier of the Philippines had filed for bankruptcy in the United States in September, seeking relief from creditors as it tried to survive the devastation unleashed on the airline industry by the coronavirus pandemic.

Its court-approved reorganization plan includes a $2 billion debt reduction and additional liquidity of $505 million from its main shareholder, PAL said in a statement Friday.

It also has the option to obtain up to $150 million in additional financing from new investors.

“PAL has streamlined operations with a reorganized fleet and is now better capitalized for future growth,” the airline added.

PAL said in September it had cancelled more than 80,000 flights, wiping out $2 billion in revenue, and let go of more than 2,000 employees.

Euro marks 20 eventful years

THE euro on Saturday marks 20 years since people began to use the single European currency, overcoming initial doubts, price concerns and a debt crisis to spread across the region.

Euro banknotes and coins came into circulation in 12 countries on 1 January 2002, greeted by a mix of enthusiasm and scepticism from citizens who had to trade in their Deutsche marks, French francs, pesetas and liras.

The euro is now used by 340 million people in 19 nations, from Ireland to Germany to Slovakia.

Bulgaria, Croatia

and Romania are next in line to join the eurozone in the next few years -- though people are divided over the benefits of abandoning their national currencies.

The idea of creating the euro first emerged in the 1970s as a way to deepen European integration, make trade more simple between member nations and give the continent a currency to compete with the mighty dollar. Officials credit the euro for helping Europe avoid an economic catastrophe during the coronavirus pandemic.—AFP ■

Iran announces new space launch during nuclear talks

IRAN on Thursday said it has carried out a new space launch, sparking concern in Washington which said such moves show the need to revive a 2015 nuclear deal.

Tehran successfully put its first military satellite into orbit in April 2020, drawing a sharp rebuke from the United States.

Western governments worry that satellite launch systems incorporate technologies interchangeable with those used in ballistic missiles capable of delivering a nuclear warhead.

Iran insists its space programme is for civilian and defence purposes only, and does not breach the nuclear deal or any other international agreement.

“The United States remains concerned with Iran’s development of space launch vehicles, which pose a significant proliferation concern,” a State Department spokesperson said.

Iran’s state broadcaster aired footage of a rocket rising from a desert launchpad, but gave no details of its location.

“The Simorgh (Phoenix) satellite launcher carried three research cargos into space,” said Ahmad Hosseini, spokesman for the defence ministry’s space division.

“The research goals foreseen for this launch have been achieved,” he added, quoted by state television.

Earlier this month US media reported that preparations for a launch were under way at Iran’s space centre in Semnan, 300 kilometres (190 miles) east of Tehran.

Hosseini did not elaborate on the nature of the research, but he said the latest operation was a “preliminary launch” and that more would follow.

Hopes and fears of ‘Israelization’ in occupied Golan

BULLDOZERS in the Israeli-annexed Golan Heights are clearing the ground for middle-class neighbourhoods, part of a plan to dramatically expand Jewish settlements on land still home to thousands of Syrians.

Israel’s government on Sunday approved a one-billion-shekel ($320-million) five-year plan to double the Jewish settler population of the Golan Heights, a strategic area that Israel seized from Syria in the 1967 Six-Day War.

Under the plan, more than 10,000 new homes are to be built — a third of them earmarked for the Jewish settlement of Katsrin.

“In 20 to 30 years, Katsrin will grow from a population of 9,000 to a population of 50,000 to 60,000,” said its mayor, Dimi

Apartzev.

The new buildings are attracting Jewish settlers from across Israel — many motivated by the offer of affordable housing rather than political ideology.

“After years of civil war in Syria, everyone knows that the Golan Heights is quiet, green and blossoming,” Israeli Prime Minister Naftali Bennett said at the unveiling of the plan, which still needs cabinet approval.

“The Golan Heights is a wonderful option for people who work from home and prefer clean air, space and quality of life.”

Ronaldo statue kicks up a fuss in India’s Goa

Cristiano Ronaldo’s statue in Panaji, Goa has sparked controversy. PHOTO: ANI

A statue of Portuguese footballer Cristiano Ronaldo has caused a stir in the southern Indian state of Goa, with locals accusing officials of insensitivity for honouring a sports star from the region’s former colonial power.

Protesters with black flags gathered at the site after the statue was unveiled this week in the town of Calangute.

They expressed anger that authorities had shunned Indian sports stars and chosen a player from Portugal, which granted Goa independence in 1961.

Micky Fernandes, a former

Indian international player who is from Goa, said the choice was “hurtful” and a “hangover” from Portuguese rule. “Ronaldo is the best player in the world but still we should have a statue of a football player from Goa,” Fernandes told AFP. Michael Lobo, a local minister with India’s ruling Bharatiya Janata Party, told AFP the aim was to inspire young people to excel not just inside the country but internationally “All the boys and girls who want to make football a career will get inspired by people like Cristiano Ronaldo,” Lobo said.—AFP ■

Stampede at India religious shrine kills 12

At least 12 people died and 13 were injured in a stampede at a religious shrine in India in the early hours of Saturday as thousands of pilgrims massed to offer prayers, officials said.

The disaster happened around 3:00 am (2130 GMT) while it was still dark on the route to the Vaishno Devi shrine in Indian-administered Kashmir, one of the country’s most revered Hindu sites.

“People fell over each other... It was difficult to figure out whose leg or arms were tangled with whose,” witness Ravinder, who gave only one name, told AFP by phone from the scene.

“I helped pick up eight bodies by the time ambulances arrived after about half an hour. I feel lucky to be alive but am still shaking with memory of what I saw,” he said.—AFP ■

France culls over 600,000 poultry in new bird flu outbreak

France has culled 600,000 to 650,000 chickens, ducks and other poultry over the past month, officials said Friday, in a race to contain a bird flu virus threatening to become the fourth major outbreak in the country since 2015.

The Agriculture Ministry reported virus clusters at 26 factory farms, mainly in the southwest — home to France’s lucrative foie gras pate industry — as well as 15 cases in wild fowl and three at barnyards.

Several European countries are now battling a highly contagious flu strain, H5N1, just a year after a similar virus decimated flocks.

Belgium and Britain have announced outbreaks, while Czech veterinarians said Wednesday that 80,000 birds would be culled at a single farm where over 100,000 animals have died from the virus since last week.

In France, the government ordered farmers in November to keep poultry indoors in a bid to stop the spread of the virus by migratory birds, though the first case was detected later that month, at a site in the north.—AFP ■

Mali junta moots five-year transition to civilian rule

MALI'S military-dominated government on Thursday suggested that the poor Sahel country might take five years to return to democratic rule after holding a four-day "reform conference".

A transition of between six months and five years will enable the junta to "carry out structural institutional reforms and (organize) credible, fair and transparent elections", according to a document read out at the end of the forum.

"The government will put in place a timetable aimed at ensuring a peaceful and secure constitutional restoration," junta boss Assimi Goita said in a closing speech.

In August 2020, young officers led by Goita toppled the country's elected president, Ibrahim Boubacar Keita, after weeks of street protests over perceived corruption and his handling of a bloody jihadist insurgency.

Under pressure from France and Mali's neighbours, Goita pledged that Mali would return to civilian rule in February 2022 after holding presidential and legislative elections.—AFP ■

PRESIDENT Vladimir Putin said Moscow "firmly" defended its interests in 2021 — a year marked by an unprecedented crackdown on the opposition and increased tensions with the West — in a New Year's address.

"We firmly and consistently defended our national interests, the security of the country and (of) citizens," Putin said in a televised speech.

The broadcast aired at midnight in the Far Eastern Kamchatka peninsula and was reported by Russian agencies.

This year Russia implemented a major crackdown on organizations and people critical of Putin — starting with the jailing of his top critic Alexei Navalny in February.

Tensions between Russia and the West have also reached new highs over Ukraine.

Putin discussed the soaring tensions in a phone call with US President Joe Biden on Thursday.

Macron takes EU reins as election looms

France takes over the rotating presidency of the European Union on Saturday, affording President Emmanuel Macron the chance to pose as the EU's de facto leader in the run-up to national elections in April.

The 44-year-old has never made any secret of his ambitions to be the motor for further European integration, serving over the last four years as a dynamic sidekick to the more steady German chancellor Angela Merkel in Europe's power couple.

With Merkel now retired and the timely gift of the rotating presidency of the EU Council from 1 January, Macron has announced an ambitious agenda for the 27-member bloc that could also serve his domestic campaign for re-election. "The year 2022 must be a turning point for Europe," he said in a New Year's Eve national address that hailed the EU's role during the Covid-19 crisis.—AFP ■

South Africans bid farewell to Tutu on eve of funeral

SOUTH Africans on Friday took their last chance to pay their respects to Archbishop Desmond Tutu on the eve of a funeral for the revered anti-apartheid fighter. Since Thursday, nearly 3,000 mourners have filed through Cape Town's St. George's Cathedral before the simple pine casket containing Tutu's remains.

Members of Tutu's family hugged and consoled each other as the coffin returned for the second and final day of the lying in state and a band, which included a preschooler trumpeter, played in his honour.

The archbishop's successor, Thabo Makgoba, waved a chalice of burning incense over the coffin before pall bearers — Anglican vicars — took the coffin from a silver Mercedes SUV hearse.

They slowly walked up the stairs into the cathedral where Tutu had preached for a decade.

The body will spend the night in the cathedral until the funeral, which will be presided over by President Cyril Ramaphosa. Tutu died peacefully aged 90 on Sunday.

His passing unleashed nationwide grief at the loss of the last great hero of the anti-apartheid era, and tributes from world leaders for a man cherished for his righteous anger and humour.

'Aquamation'

Tutu carefully set down details for his funeral, insisting that his coffin be "the cheapest" available, and that it be adorned by a simple bunch of carnations.

Mourners are being asked to donate money to his charitable foundations instead of sending flowers — and even the disposal of his remains is being conducted in an eco-friendly way.—Xinhua ■

Liverpool's Klopp confident Chelsea game will go ahead despite Covid chaos

LIVERPOOL manager Jurgen Klopp believes his side's crucial match against Chelsea will go ahead on Sunday despite three new coronavirus cases in his camp as another Premier League fixture was called off.

Klopp refused to name the players on Friday as they were awaiting test results but forward Roberto Firmino and goalkeeper Alisson Becker were absent from pictures released by Liverpool of a club training session.

Both sides will regard the match at Stamford Bridge as a must-win game as they seek to keep pace with defending champions Manchester City, who are eight points clear at the top.

"We have three new Covid cases in the team and a few more in the staff so it's not so cool at the moment," Klopp said at his pre-match press conference.

Bautista Agut leads Spain to crushing ATP Cup win over Chile

ROBERTO Bautista Agut got Spain's New Year off to a perfect start Saturday with a crushing ATP Cup win over Chilean world number 17 Cristian Garin as he spearheads the team in Rafael Nadal's absence.

The 33-year-old, ranked two places below Garin, barely broke a sweat in the 6-0, 6-3 win at the Ken Rosewall Arena in Sydney, ensuring Spain won their Group A tie on day one of the season-opening tournament.

"I played a very solid game, good rhythm and good speed," he said. "I'm very happy because I won my point for the team."

Bautista Agut, a nine-time ATP Tour titlist, was part of the Nadal-led Spain team that made the final at the inaugural teams event in 2020, when they were beaten by Novak Djokovic's Serbia.

He is the lead singles player this time after 20-time Grand Slam champion Nadal opted to play an Australian Open lead-up event in Melbourne instead.

Whether Nadal would make it to Australia at all was in doubt after he tested positive for the coronavirus after an exhibition tournament in Abu Dhabi last month.

But he tweeted a photo of himself on an empty court at Melbourne Park late Friday with the comment: "Don't tell anyone... here I am."

A number of other players in Abu Dhabi also tested positive, including Russia's world number five Andrey Rublev, who is out of the ATP Cup. Defending champions Russia, who beat Italy in last year's final, start their campaign on Sunday against France.—AFP ■

Southampton-Newcastle match postponed due to Covid-19

SOUTHAMPTON'S home match against Newcastle on Sunday is the latest Premier League fixture to be called off after a coronavirus outbreak in the visitors' camp.

"Sunday's Premier League clash between Southampton and Newcastle United at St Mary's Stadium has been postponed due to ongoing Covid-19 cases and injuries amongst the Magpies' first-team squad," said a Newcastle statement.

The Premier League said it had accepted the request to postpone the match because Newcastle did not have the required number of players available (13 outfield players and one goalkeeper). It is the second successive Newcastle fixture to be postponed following the cancellation of Thursday's scheduled game at Everton. The Premier League assesses applications to postpone matches on a case-by-case basis, based on existing rules and adapted guidance, implemented in light of the new Omicron variant of Covid-19.—AFP ■
