Vinaya Pitaka treatise guides members of the Sangha to have mental and physical politeness: Bhamo Sayadaw

T he Vinaya Pitaka treatise was set as the first-ever subject in the written test of the Tipitakadhara Tipitakakovida selection examination with the aim of turning out the well-verged members of the Sangha called qualified Suta Buddhas, said Chairman of the State Sangha Maha Nayaka Committee Bhamo Sayadaw Dr Bhaddanta Ramara Bhivamsa at the opening of the written test of the examination at Wazayamingala Dhamma Thabin Hall on Kaba Aye Hill in Yangon yesterday morning.

Speaking on the occasion, the Sayadaw delivered a Saranaya Ovadakatha, saying that the Vinaya Pitaka treatise guides members of the Sangha to have mental and physical politeness. The monks who abide by the Vinaya Pitaka treatise are more admirable for the Buddhist people. Noviciate and ordination need to follow the rules of Vinaya Pitaka. Hence, forefather venerable Sayadaws remarked that the Vinaya is the backbone of the Sasana.

As preaching of the members of the Sangha on the Dhamma, Adhamma, Vinaya and Avinaya contribute much towards the uplift of socio-economic improvement of the people. Truly, members of the Sangha need to have the capacity for preaching the Dhamma, Adhamma, Vinaya and Avinaya by studying the Tri Pitaka treatises. ‘Sasanatthitya Pana Paripattti Pamanam’ mentions that existence of the Buddhism is primarily based on Pariyatti. The Lord Buddha urged members of the Sangha to uplift Buddhism through Dhamma Nuggaha and laypersons to enhance Buddhism through Amisa Nuggaha objects. Moreover, the Lord Buddha stressed the need for laypersons and members of the Sangha to rely on each other to flourish three kinds of Sadhama for the Sasana.

Public request regarding lower electricity production rate of power plants
5 January 2022

1. The Ministry of Electricity and Energy makes strenuous efforts for electricity generation and distribution from power plants for the people and industries in respective regions/states and also arranges to improve electricity supply in order to cover an annually increasing power consumption.

2. Normally, the maximum power generation capacity is about 4,200MW, but now about 750MW production of the LNG to power plants have been suspended due to a fourfold increase in gas prices. The annual maintenance works on Yadana offshore project were conducted between 27-11-2021 and 6-1-2022 like previous years and so the power generating rate of natural gas power plants decreased about 540MW, and the 230kV transmission tower of Balu Chaung hydropower station was exploded and about 180MW was reduced.

3. Moreover, the annual maintenance works are being undertaken at some gas-fired power plants and hydropower stations and due to the lower inflow of water to hydropower plants in the current open season and the reduction of hydropower generation at the reservoirs/dams to supply power in summer, the production is about 1,470MW lower than the total consumption. If the maintenance of the Yadana gas project completes, the power can be generated normally starting 7-1-2022, and although the repair works of destroyed towers are being made as quickly as possible, about 930MW will be still reduced.

4. Therefore, due to the adjustment for the stability of power system as per the amount of low power generation, there is a need to reduce the load during high power consumption hours between 7 am to 11 am and between 5 pm to 7 pm, and so the power outages occur in some places.

5. Of 10.9 million households in the country, about 6.6 million (60 per cent) currently have access to electricity from the National Grid. If these households use low-power-consumption LED bulbs/lights, it can save about 20W per household while 6.6 million households about 132MW. Moreover, if the households with high power consumption switch off unnecessary lights to save about 100W per household and about 300MW for three million households, and so it can fulfill the reduction of 432MW and the meter bill payment of one household will also be lower.

6. Therefore, the Ministry of Electricity and Energy raise a request to the public to understand if there are any inconveniences caused by the reduction of load in some areas for lower power generation for balance load and are working hard to supply power as quickly as possible and arranging new projects to produce power more from various sources, including solar and hydropower.

Quality assurance signals high price in Sino-Myanmar border

MYANMAR's watermelons and muskmelons which are exported to China fetch a good price depending on their quality, Sai Khin Maung from the Khwanyo Trading Depot said.

Better quality adds value to over seven Yuan per kilogramme of watermelon.

Regardless of the quality determining the price, high transport cost and long queue posed burdens on traders. Some watermelons went off, Sai Khin Maung added.

"Watermelons and muskmelons are receiving handomme prices in the Wanting area. However, traders are taking a risk to convey watermelons to China amidst the high transport cost of Chinese short-haul trucks and unexpected delays," he stressed.

Long delay of trucks caused harm to watermelon quality and only one in five trucks heading to China remained undamaged with quality watermelons during the 2021-end period. It took about 20 days from the farm to the Chinese market at present.

"Quality control can be assured only after reducing delays in China side, getting entry permit for Myanmar short-haul drivers to the market beyond Chinese drivers and cutting the red-tape and trade barriers in Myanmar side, he continued.

In addition to COVID-19 restriction measures, China's Customs regulations resulted in delays. China's Customs in the border post will practise higher import duty as if it does in maritime trade. Therefore, the trucks are waiting for new Customs regulations, the Khwanyo Trading Depot stated.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, trade facilitation is unlike to happen according to China's trade policy. Trade will go back to normality after China eases rules and restriction measures for COVID-19.

China shut down all border posts with Thai city in the wake of COVID-19 impacts. Of them, the Kyunsu-Kyayaw border post between Myanmar and China, which was previously closed down from 8 July, has been reopened starting from 26 November on a trial run. - NN/GNLM

About 2,100 acres of three crops to convey to market by the end of Feb 2022

ABOUT 2,100 acres of sunflower, chickpea and wheat, cultivated in Paukinn farmland in ChaungU Township, are ready to convey to the market by the end of February 2022, said Paukinn farmland in-charge Assistant Director U Win Naing.

"These three crops are started cultivating on 2 November and completed on 19 November. It has been two months already on 10 January. These three crops were cultivated by the department's staff using department budgets. Now, these sunflowers, chickpeas and wheat are produced abundantly. These three crops are ready to convey to the market by the end of February," he added.

There are a total of 2,570 acres of land, including roads, creeks and canals in Paukinn farmland. Of which, about 2,100 acres are plantation lands. Currently, about 50 acres of sunflowers, 430 acres of wheat and 1,620 acres of chickpeas have been cultivated in Paukinn farmland using underground water.

"Germination, seed quality and seed-stage will be defined and they will be a sale under the department name. The department is only focusing on reproducing. It is a field that produces the cheapest varieties of seeds for farmers to use so that they can get high yields," U Win Naing clarified.

After harvesting the current winter crops such as sunflower, chickpeas and wheat, the department will grow summer crops such as green gram, black bean and sesame in February and March.

The Paukinn farmland yielded about 120 kilograms per acre of sunflower, 26 baskets per acre of wheat and 12 baskets per acre of chickpea (one basket is equivalent to 46 pounds), it is learnt. — Lu Lay/GNLM

THE price of black sesame (Fair and Average Quality) remains unchanged at K140,000-190,000 per three-basket bag when both the supply and demand decrease.

Meanwhile, the various sesame seeds priced at between K120,000 and 170,000 per bag are highly demanded. The supply of newly harvested sesame seeds cut the prices to K240,000 per three-basket bag in November and shortly thereafter, the price gradually went down. The consumers are buying less black sesame (FAQ) so the supply decreases, Soe Win Myint pulses depot in Mandalay stated.

Normally, Myanmar exports about 80 per cent of sesame production to foreign markets. Normally, Myanmar's sesame is shipped to China, the Republic of Korea, Japan, Singapore, European Union countries and China Taipei (Taiwan).

THE EU markets prefer organic-farming sesame seeds from Myanmar. Japan prefers Myanmar black sesame seeds, cultivated under good agricultural practices (GAP), and purchases them after a quality assessment.

At present, the country is relying solely on the Chinese market facing a hurdle to place the sesame on other foreign countries. Both raw sesame seeds and value-added sesame seeds are conveyed to China. When the COVID-19 cases fall and transportation barriers are eased, the sesame market will raise its head again for sure, a depot owner from the Bayintnaung wholesale market said.

Sesame is cultivated in the country throughout the year. Magway Region, which has gained a reputation as the oil pot of Myanmar, is the main producer of sesame seeds. The seeds are also grown in Mandalay and Sagaing regions.

Of the cooking oil crops grown in Myanmar, the acreage under sesame seed is the highest, accounting for 51.3 per cent of the overall oil crop plantation. About 600,000-800,000 tonnes of sesame seeds are yearly produced. — KK/GNLM

Myanmar-Thai border trade hits $1.1 bln this mini-budget

The bilateral trade between Myanmar and Thailand, followed by China, regional countries and European Union countries through maritime trade, reached $713.64 million in 2021, whereas it fetched only K685,000-786,000 per 100-basket in 2020. However, high input costs cut the benefits of the growers.

The country sent over 27,000 tonnes of rice and broken rice to the neighbouring countries through border trade, whereas it placed over 470,000 tonnes in the international market via maritime trade.

Myanmar also generated an income of US$700 million from 2 million tonnes of rice exports to the foreign countries in the past 2020-2021 financial year. —KK/GNLM
THE word of Peace covered all pages of publications as well as on the air in the broadcasting of radio and television images all over Myanmar during the whole last year. Such a continuous flow this year as a New Year Day is expected their dreams come true for restoration of the peace through the talks with the participants of the government, the Tatmadaw and relevant stakeholders, focusing on common interests for the nation to be able to enjoy the taste of perpetual peace. The government is always keen to restore the actual peace for the sake of the people and the nation and all stakeholders as well. That is why the government has always opened the door to peace negotiations. It is because peace can change all forms and situations of society. It can help the people see good fortune, brighter future and prosperous potential.

The State Administration Council has adopted the fourth point of the fifth point of which mentions that upon accomplishing the provisions of the state of emergency, free and fair multi-party democratic elections will be held in line with the 2008 Constitution, and further work will be undertaken to hand over State duties to the winning party in accordance with democratic standards.

The smooth peace processes depend on the cooperation of the regional and international community. The four-point of the roadmap support the last point. It is noticeable that if one hand holds the door, the other four points, it will be a hindrance to the last point. However, the government clearly de-cleared that it will not change its policy at present.

All the stakeholders to restore the peace need to keep the same attitudes and set aside the different opinions. They all need to talk about the peace issue based on the same attitudes while negotiating the different opinions related to peace through compromises. They all have to march forwards to the goal of restoring peace inch by inch.

Aspire to the greatest prospect to restore perpetual peace

The COVID-19 pandemic has shown how critical it is to ensure essential information is accessible to everyone, including people with disabilities. On World Braille Day, observed on 4 January, UN agencies have been highlighting they are promoting a disability-inclusive response to the crisis.

UN agencies have been implementing good practices towards a disability-inclusive response and disseminating information in Braille.

For example, in Malawi, the Development Programme (UNDP) has produced more than 4,000 braille materials on awareness and prevention of COVID-19. Meanwhile, in Ethiopia, the UN human rights office, OHCHR, disseminated audio information, as well as education and communication materials, to media professionals, and developed Braille versions of the educational materials.

The UN Children’s Fund (UNICEF) has also produced guidance suites in multiple languages and accessible formats, including Braille and ‘easy-to-read’ versions.

siderations for Children and Adults with Disabilities address-

ONCE a rarity, cows with light blue or dark ultramarine hides may again be glimpsed grazing in the Latvian countryside among the regular brown, black or white spotted cattle.

The unique and hardy breed, among the regular brown, black or white spotted cattle, has almost gone extinct.

And dairy, favouring more generic cattle and causing the blue cow to drive to near extinction during the Soviet era, has made them thrive, he told AFP while being a breeding facility for the cattle.

Webb telescope fully deploys sunshield in mission milestone

Deploying the James Webb Telescope in space will be one of the most challenging feats ever to be undertaken.

THE James Webb Space Telescope fully deployed its tennis-court sized sunshield Tuesday, a critical milestone for the success of its mission to study every phase of cosmic history, NASA said.

“All five layers of the sunshield are fully tensioned,” said an announcer at the observatory’s control centre in Baltimore, where team members cheered, a live feed showed.

The 70-foot (21 meter) long, kite-shaped apparatus acts like a parasol, ensuring Webb’s instruments are kept in the shade so they can detect faint infrared signals from the far reaches of the Universe.

Each of the layers was unfolded one by one over two days. Working together they offer an SPF (sun protection factor) of about one million.

Because the telescope was too large to fit into a rocket’s nose cone in its operational configuration, it had to be transported folded, origami style. Unfurling is a complex and challenging task, the most daunting such deployment NASA has ever attempted.

“This is the first time anyone has ever attempted to put a telescope this large into space,” Thomas Zurbuchen, associate administrator for NASA’s science mission directorate, said in a statement. “The success of its most challenging deployment — the sunshield — is an incredible testament to the human ingenuity and engineering skill that will enable Webb to accomplish its science goals.”

Rare leopard captured in northern Iraq

AN endangered leopard captured in Iraq’s mountainous north had its hind leg amputated on Friday following a trap-inflicted wound, an AFP photographer said.

The Persian leopard, taken a day earlier in Iraq’s autonomous Kurdistan region, is a rare species.

Residents of a village near the town of Zakho lost around 20 sheep before realizing a leopard was attacking their flock, he said. The big cat sustained a wound to its back leg when it was caught in a shepherd’s trap, but managed to escape before villagers helped police track it down. Saado said the leopard was given an anaesthetic before it was captured. —AFP

China locks down city of 1.2 million after three virus cases

More than one million people in a city in central China were being confined to their homes on Tuesday after three asymptomatic coronavirus cases were recorded in the country’s latest mass lockdown.

Beijing has pursued a “zero Covid” approach with tight border restrictions and targeted lockdowns since the virus first emerged. Yuzhou, a city with a population of around 1.17 million people in Henan province, announced that from Monday night all citizens were required to stay home to control the spread of the virus. The announcement was triggered by the discovery of three cases in the last couple of days. People in the central area “must not go out”, according to a statement posted Monday, while all communities will set up “sentinels and gates to strictly implement epidemic prevention and control measures”. The city had already announced that it was halting bus and taxi services and closing shopping malls, museums and tourist attractions.

China reported another 175 new Covid-19 cases on Tuesday, including five in Henan province and eight more in a separate cluster linked to a garment factory in the eastern city of Ningbo. Although the reported cases are low compared with elsewhere in the world, new coronavirus infections in recent weeks have reached a high not seen in the country since March 2020.

There were 95 fresh cases recorded in Xi’an Tuesday — a historic city of 13 million people in the Shaanxi province — which has been under lockdown for nearly two weeks. Xi’an has reported more than 1,600 cases since 9 December, although numbers in the last few days have started to slide compared to last week’s figures.

Local authorities deemed to have failed in preventing virus outbreaks in China are often fired or punished, prompting a series of ever-stricter responses from provincial governments as they try to stamp out any cases quickly. —AFP

The US Food and Drug Administration (FDA) on Monday expanded the emergency use authorization for the Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine boosters to children aged 12 to 15, as schools reopen amid a winter surge of new infections driven by the Omicron variant.

The FDA also shortened the time for booster shots from at least six months after completion of the initial series to at least five months, for everyone aged 12 and older.

The decision was based on FDA’s review of real-world data from Israel, including safety data from more than 4,300 individuals 12 through 15 years of age who received a booster dose of the vaccine at least 5 months following completion of the primary two-dose vaccination series.

The agency has determined that the protective health benefits of a single booster dose of the Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine to provide continued protection against COVID-19 and the associated serious consequences outweigh the potential risks in individuals aged 12 to 15. The agency said that it found “no new safety concerns” following a booster shot in young teenagers, and that there were no new reports of two types of heart inflammation called myocarditis or pericarditis linked to the boosters. —Xinhua

Australia’s Omicron surge drives infections record, testing rush

Australia reported a record daily tally of nearly 50,000 Covid-19 cases Tuesday as the Omicron variant raced through the population and sent people scrambling for tests.

While the Omicron surge has apparently left relatively few dangerously ill, it has driven a rush on increasingly scarce self-administered rapid antigen kits and created hours-long queues at centres providing more reliable PCR tests. Australia had successfully suppressed infections for much of the pandemic through border closures and aggressive testing and tracing.

But an earlier wave fuelled by the Delta variant dashed a re-Covid ambitions in much of the country, including the major cities Sydney and Melbourne. Now, like many countries, it relies on vaccines for protection with 91.5 per cent of the over-16 population fully vaccinated. About 2.5 million people have received a booster. Deputy chief medical officer Sonya Bennett said Australia had recorded 47,738 infections in the past 24 hours, up from about 30,000 cases the previous day, as the Omicron variant took hold.

Covid cases being treated in hospitals across the country had nearly doubled in a week to 2,962 infections, she said. But the number in intensive care was much smaller: 184. And of those, 59 were on a ventilator — unchanged from a week ago. —AFP

Arrests, clashes in Netherlands Covid protest

Thousands of protesters defied authorities and gathered in the Dutch capital Amsterdam on Sunday to oppose coronavirus restrictions, leading to clashes and arrests.

“This is Holland! Power to the people!” chanted one protester.

The demonstrators rallied in one of the city’s main squares, according to an AFP journalist, despite Dutch authorities banning the protest beforehand.

Clashes with police left several people with minor injuries and security forces made arrests, public broadcaster NOS reported.

Prime Minister Mark Rutte announced a lockdown one week before Christmas on December 25 in response to a fresh wave of Covid infections fuelled by the Omicron variant.

Non-essential shops, restaurants, bars, cinemas, theatres and museums remain closed until 14 January and schools until 9 January.

US triumphs over Canada in first dispute under new trade deal

THE US government on Tuesday said it had won its fight with Ottawa over restrictions in the Canadian dairy market, claiming victory in the first-ever dispute under the revamped North American free trade pact.

But rather than remove a point of conflict between the trading partners, the issue may exacerbate stresses, since both sides have vowed to fight to protect their own industries and workers.

US Trade Representative Katherine Tai called the ruling under the US-Mexico-Canada Agreement a “historic win” that “will help eliminate unjustified trade restrictions.”

Lebanese currency drops to record low

THE Lebanese pound on Tuesday crossed the symbolic threshold of 30,000 to the dollar on the black market in a new record low, according to websites monitoring the exchange rate.

The pound now trades at 20 times the official peg value of 1,500 pounds to the dollar, having fallen by 40 per cent in the past two years.

The purchasing power of people has plummeted, and the minimum monthly wage of 675,000 pounds is now worth just $22.

But William Reinsch, a trade policy expert at the Centre for Strategic and International Studies, said the Biden administration’s approach to trade is sometimes viewed as “Trump light.”

“The rhetoric is different... it’s a more rational, less impulsive policymaking process,” he told AFP. But, “Their mindset is in some respects... not that different from Trump’s.”

Palestine’s economy expected to grow by 4% in 2022: PM

THE Palestinian economy is expected to see a 4-per-cent increase this year, Prime Minister Mohammed Ishtaye said here on Monday.

During a weekly meeting of the Palestinian cabinet, Ishtaye said he expected the value of the gross national income and the total national disposable income to increase by 3.2 per cent and 4.2 per cent respectively in 2022, according to an official statement.

The total consumption in 2022 is likely to grow by 2 per cent year-on-year, the prime minister added.—Xinhua

Japan regional banks launch system to monitor ship-to-ship transfers

AT least 12 regional banks in Japan have introduced a system to monitor ship-to-ship transfers of cash and gold earned through illegal means as part of their efforts to combat money laundering, bank officials said Wednesday.

The introduction of the system, of IHS Markit, an information-providing firm headquartered in London, comes as an intergovernmental body tasked with combating money laundering and terrorist funding has indicated Japanese regional banks’ anti-money laundering measures were insufficient.

According to its 2021 report on Japan, the Financial Action Task Force said some financial institutions in the country other than megabanks, have a limited understanding of money laundering and terrorist financing risks that have become a global issue.

The 12 banks which introduced the system include Hiroshima Bank, Hyakujushi Bank and Fukuoka Financial Group Inc., with many based in areas where shipbuilding and shipping business prosper.

The system alerts its users when the speed of a vessel dips below its setting. U.S. and European financial institutions as well as major Japanese institutions started introducing the monitoring system after the 2001 terrorist attacks in the United States as part of their anti-money laundering and counter terrorist financing measures.—Kyodo

China to provide anchor mechanism for RCEP, says Singaporean scholar

CHINA will provide an anchor mechanism for the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP), the world’s largest free trade pact which came into force on 1 January, a Singaporean scholar said recently.

As the world’s second-largest economy which possesses very strong bases in consumption, production and innovation, China will provide the anchor mechanism for RCEP said Professor Lawrence Loh, director of the Center for Governance and Sustainability at National University of Singapore’s Business School.

In a recent interview with Xinhua, Loh added that “there’s a lot to gain for all parties concerned riding on China as the anchor country in this agreement.”

The timing of RCEP taking effect could not have come at a better time, as “we are on the verge of moving from pandemic to endemic,” Loh said.—Xinhua

THE snub-nosed craft resembles a shuttle-airplane mashup, and is the latest entrant in a profit-seeking push with staggering potential — and risks — for humans to visit, work or even live in space.

The display of technology like the life-size model “Dream Chaser” ship at the CES tech show in Las Vegas is a sharp signal that the commercial space era is upon us. Experts see a path for companies to power an unprecedented era of rapid advances, but with the near certain peril that space disasters will occur and lives will be lost.

Sierra Space, a subsidiary of private aerospace contractor Sierra Nevada Corp., plans to have the 36-foot (nine-meter) “Dream Chaser” flying missions this year, making the reusable spacecraft key to its off-Earth ambitions.

“Before governments were the only ones that could do it. Now, it’s getting down to regular human beings who can get a ride to space,” Neeraj Gupta, the company’s general manager of space destinations, told AFP. The craft is meant to carry people and equipment and to from commercial space installations the company envisions building in the next decade, including a system of inflatable structures to house humans in orbit. —AFP

Sony to launch firm to explore making electric cars

Sony Group CEO Kenichiro Yoshida unveiled Tuesday a new prototype of its Vision-S electric vehicle and announced the founding of a company to explore jumping into the rapidly growing market. The Japanese firm, better known for its TVs and video game consoles, will create the Sony Mobility subsidiary in spring 2022 as it weighs entering the field. Sony chief executive officer Kenichiro Yoshida unveiled at the CES tech show in Las Vegas the Vision-S 02, a new version of the firm’s first prototype that has begun road testing. Through this new branch, the electronics giant “intends to explore entry into the EV market,” it said in a statement. The Vision-S is packed with internal and external sensors and is used by Sony to test its autonomous driving technologies. The company is also working on entertainment systems. The electric vehicle sector is still small, accounting for only about three per cent of current sales in the United States and it is attracting a lot of interest and investment. —AFP

Thai central bank views Omicron outbreak as key risk to economic recovery

The spreading of the Omicron variant of COVID-19 in Thailand could have more severe and prolonged impact than expected on the country’s economic recovery, according to the minutes of the Bank of Thailand released on Wednesday.

“Although under the baseline scenario the Omicron outbreak would not derail the overall Thai economic recovery, the outbreak situation remained highly uncertain,” wrote the minutes of the central bank’s monetary policy meeting. The spread of the Omicron variant is a key risk that could hinder the economic recovery going forward, and thus warrants close monitoring, it said, adding that the severity of the outbreak and the strictness of government’s containment measures will define the level of impact that Omicron has for this year’s economic rebound. The central bank expected the Thai economy to expand 3.4 per cent and 4.7 per cent in 2022 and 2023, respectively, with growth driven by domestic spending, a gradual improvement in foreign arrivals, as well as the recovery in various business sectors.

Hong Kong tests 3,700 on ‘nowhere cruise’ ordered back to port

A Hong Kong cruise ship carrying 3,700 people was ordered back to port on Wednesday for virus testing after nine people were found to be close contacts in an Omicron variant outbreak.

Like mainland China, Hong Kong pursues a zero-Covid policy and maintains some of the world’s strictest measures — including virtually closed borders, weeks-long quarantines, targeted lockdowns and mass testing. The city has recorded 114 Omicron cases, with the vast majority identified at the airport or during the 21-day hotel quarantine that is mandatory for most arrivals. But a small community outbreak traced to Cathay Pacific airline staff has sparked mass testing and contact tracing in recent days. On Wednesday, those tracing efforts reached the “Spectrum of the Seas”, one of the vessels offering coop-up Hong Kongers a “cruise to nowhere” that sails into international waters for short trips. Health authorities said nine people on the cruise, which left on Sunday, were classified as close contacts and ordered the ship back to port a day early.

All on board — 2,500 passengers and 1,200 crew — must test negative before they can disembark. An AFP reporter outside the cruise terminal on Wednesday could see guests relaxing and exercising on their outdoor balconies. “A lot of dining tables and seats in the theatre were sealed, and we have wristbands that can help track our movements on board,” one passenger on board, who asked for anonymity, told AFP by phone.—AFP |

Canada court awards compensation for families over jet downed by Iran

A Canadian court has awarded more than $80 million in compensation to the families of six people who died when Iran shot down a Ukrainian airliner almost two years ago, according to a decision made public Monday.

Ukraine International Airlines flight PS752 was shot down shortly after take-off from Tehran on 8 January 2020, killing all 176 people aboard — including 65 Canadian citizens and permanent residents. Three days later, the Iranian armed forces admitted to downing the Kyiv-bound plane “by mistake.”

Ontario Superior Court Judge Edward Belobaba had previously ruled that the strike on the civilian aircraft “constituted terrorist activity”, paving the way for bereaved families to seek compensation.

In the decision publicly shared Monday, he awarded the plaintiffs $107 million Canadian dollars ($83 million), plus interest.—AFP |

Swiss tourism back on an uphill trend

The Swiss tourism sector had a more positive start to the key winter season than had been expected, despite the Omicron variant of Covid-19, the Switzerland Tourism agency said Tuesday.

“In comparison with the previous winter holiday season, overnight stays should be up by 10 to 15 per cent, with the return of foreign tourists,” the agency said, citing first estimates.

It said the number of overnight stays were at 90 per cent of the levels reached in 2019, so “a certain optimism is therefore perceptible.”

Reservations, and cancellations alike, were notably made at short notice, following theebb and flow of the Covid-19 pandemic. However, hotels, particularly in the mountains, witnessed a return of European tourists, especially from Germany, France and England, while domestic visitors have remained loyal.

Omicron had Swiss ski resorts rattled in early December when the government imposed 10-day quarantine restrictions on arrivals from countries with the variant of concern.

That included Britain, Belgium and the Netherlands — the three major sources of ski tourists.

Some hotels and ski schools saw their bookings with British customers plunge by 50 per cent in 48 hours. But Bern reversed its decision once it was clear that Omicron was already spreading within Switzerland. Most cases are now due to Omicron.—AFP |

24,000 evacuated, two dead in Indonesian floods

About 24,000 people have been evacuated and two children killed in floods on Indonesia’s Sumatra island, officials said Tuesday, with environmental campaigners blaming deforestation for worsening the disaster.

Torrential rains have hammered the island for days, causing rivers to burst their banks and sending water levels surging in residential areas, the national disaster agency said.

“We experience flooding at least five to eight times a year — but (this) is one of the most severe,” said Muzakkir, from Pask Timur in hard-hit Aceh province, who like many Indonesians goes by one name.

Kazakhstan president sacks cabinet in bid to head off protests

KAZAKHSTAN’S president sacked the Central Asian country’s cabinet Wednesday in a bid to head off unprecedented unrest across the nation that followed an energy price hike. President Kassym-Jomart Tokayev imposed states of emergency in the largest city Almaty, the financial capital, and the western province of Mangystau Wednesday after protests saw thousands take to the streets and demand the government’s resignation.

A separate order published on the presidential website Wednesday morning said Tokayev had accepted the resignation of the cabinet headed by Prime Minister Askar Mamin.

Deputy prime minister Alikhan Smailov will perform the PM’s role on an acting basis until a new cabinet is formed, the order stated. The southeastern city of Almaty was in chaos from late Tuesday as police fired tear gas and stun grenades to quell unrest that began in the west of the country over a spike in local prices for liquefied petroleum gas (LPG).

States of emergency in Almaty and Mangystau are effective from 5 January until 19 January, the presidential website reported. An overnight curfew will be in place in both territories from 11:00 pm to 7:00 am, with restrictions on movement in and out of the cities falling under the orders. Tokayev had hours earlier called for a return to calm in a video posted on Facebook by his press secretary Berik Uali.

“The government will not be felled, but we don’t need conflict,” Tokayev said in the address. An AFP journalist in Almaty saw police firing stun grenades and tear gas into a disorganized crowd of more than 5,000 people that grew in size as protests marched through central streets shouting anti-government slogans and sometimes attacking vehicles.—AFP

EU’s Borrell visits Ukraine in show of support amid Russia fears

EU foreign policy chief Josep Borrell arrived in Ukraine Tuesday in a show of support for Kiev as the West warns Russia against launching any attacks on its ex-Soviet neighbour.

The visit comes after months of tensions, with the West threatening Moscow with a massive coordinated sanctions response if it invades Ukraine. “With Russia’s increased military build-up, I am here to show EU support for Ukraine’s sovereignty and territorial integrity,” Borrell said on Twitter. The US and its allies have accused Russia of planning an invasion after massing some 100,000 troops near Ukraine’s border. High-ranking officials from the United States and Russia are set to hold two days of talks in Geneva on the crisis starting Sunday after the Kremlin issued a raft of demands to Washington. Brussels fears it is being sidelined as the US and the security package is designed to bolster Ukraine’s self-defence capability. PHOTO: AFP

Russia discuss the balance of power in Europe, with Borrell insisting that “any discussion about European security must happen in coordination with and participation of EU”. N. Korea fires suspected ballistic missile toward Sea of Japan

NORTH Korea fired what appeared to be a ballistic missile toward the Sea of Japan on Wednesday, its first launch of a projectile since last October, the Japanese and South Korean governments said, a move likely to prompt Tokyo to further study acquiring enemy base strike capabilities.

Japan’s Defence Minister Nobuo Kishi told reporters that the projectile was likely launched from an inland area of North Korea toward the east and was presumed to have landed outside the Japanese exclusive economic zone. Kishi said the latest launch took place around 8:07 am and follows the launch by Pyongyang of some 40 missiles since May 2019 to ramp up the development of its missile technology.

The Japanese defence minister said details of the launch are still under analysis but if the warhead flew on a normal trajectory, it would have travelled about 500 kilometres. “Given these situations, we will consider all options, including the possession of so-called enemy base strike capabilities, and will continue to work to drastically strengthen our defence capability,” Kishi said.—Kyodo

Peru president faces collusion investigation after term ends

PERUVIAN prosecutors said on Tuesday that they will investigate President Pedro Castillo when his term ends for the alleged crimes of influence peddling, collusion and illegal sponsorship.

Attorney-general Zoraida Avalos Rivera “opened a preliminary investigation” into the president “for allegedly committing the crimes” of aggravated influence peddling, as perpetrator, and collusion, as participant, the agency said in a statement.

But the proceedings will be suspended until Castillo’s five-year term ends in 2026, as the president has absolute immunity that transcends the scope of criminal proceedings” in Peru.—AFP

Macron hints at re-election campaign ahead of April vote

FRENCH President Emmanuel Macron wants to stand for a second term in April presidential elections but will only declare his intentions once he is sure, he said in an interview with the Le Parisien newspaper published Tuesday.

“There is no false suspense. I want to,” Macron, the last of the major hopefuls in the election yet to declare his intentions, told the paper when asked if he planned to stand.

“Once the health situation allows it and I have made everything clear — inside myself and with respect to the political equation — I will say what it (the decision) is.” He added: “This decision is solidifying deep inside me. I need to be sure that I am able to go as far as I want.”

The comments to Le Parisien represented by far Macron’s clearest indication yet he plans to stand — while not ending the suspense over his intentions.

Macron, who swept to power in 2017 on a pledge to reform France and restore its status as a global power, is the overwhelming favourite to win the election but analysts caution his victory is far from certain.—AFP

Two ASEAN-level Futsal competitions to be held this year

THE ASEAN Football Federation will host both ASEAN Futsal Championships this year, according to the federation officials. The football federation will hold the ASEAN Futsal Championships for its member countries and ASEAN Futsal Club Championship for ASEAN Futsal clubs. The COVID-19 pandemic has prevented some competition in recent years.

The ASEAN Futsal Championship was cancelled in 2020 and 2021, and the ASEAN Futsal Club Championship could not be held in 2020 but was resumed in 2021.

Myanmar teams are competing in both tournaments. Myanmar national Futsal team will compete in the ASEAN Futsal Championship, while the team that wins the domestic Futsal league will be sent to the ASEAN Futsal Club Championship.

The ASEAN Football Federation is scheduled to host the ASEAN Futsal Championship in April and the ASEAN Futsal Club Championship in August in Thailand.

The ASEAN Futsal Championship was launched in 2001 and the Myanmar team started competing in 2006.

This year will be the 17th edition with Thailand winning 15 times and Indonesia winning once. The Myanmar team won the second and third twice and reached the finals for the first time in 2016.

The ASEAN Futsal Club Championship was launched in 2015 and Myanmar clubs have competed in all but not in 2021 competitions.

In all six previous events, only Thai clubs have won and the Myanmar Futsal club MIC team won the third prize in 2015, 2016, 2018 and 2019.

Kane ‘totally involved’ in Spurs project, says Conte

SOUTHAMPTON have been taken over by Serbian businessman Dragan Solak’s Sport Republic investment firm, the English Premier League club announced Tuesday. Sport Republic, who specialize in sport and entertainment investments, have purchased the 80 per cent shareholding in the south coast side previously owned by Jisheng Gao.

But while the Chinese businessman, who purchased his stake in 2017, is bowing out, Katharina Liebherr has retained her 20 per cent share in the Saints.

Solak is the lead investor in London-based Sport Republic, a company founded by Rasmus Ankersen — who recently stepped down as Brentford co-director of football — and Henrik Kraft. “My partners and I have experience in long-term investments in the sports and entertainment industry and Sport Republic has been founded to combine this expertise and deliver something unique to the market,” said Solak in a Southampton statement.
