

In Our Daily Learning Environment

According to Article 2 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights-UDHR which was declared on December 10th, 1948 by the General Assembly of the United Nation (UN), "everyone is entitled to all the rights and freedoms set forth in this Declaration."

There must not be any kind of discrimination while studying regardless of races, natives, religions, classes, cultures, sex, economic status and disabilities of the learners.

[Basic Education Law, Chapter III, Section 4(c)]

Because of different learning ability, opinion and belief

Because of differences in faiths

Because of differences in races, traditions, cultures, natives and languages

Because of the differences in sexual identification

Because of disabilities

Because of different economic status

Because of different physical appearances

Although there may be differences as mentioned above in the pictures, we must recognize and support each other in the sense that "Every person has different ability and creativity."

It is a duty of everyone to value human rights and not to discriminate anyone based on their differences while studying or in social life.

USAID
FROM THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

fhi360
THE SCIENCE OF IMPROVING LIVES

"This publication was prepared under a Grant funded by Family Health International under Cooperative Agreement/Grant No. [72048218LA00001] funded by [U.S Agency for International Development]. The content of this publication does not necessarily reflect the views, analysis or policies of FHI 360 or [U.S. Agency for International Development], nor does any mention of trade names, commercial products, or organizations imply endorsement by FHI 360 or [U.S. Agency for International Development]."