The Tatmadaw took over the State duty due to the assignment of the Pro Tem President. It was not Coup D'état

THE Union Election Commission did not address such problems. After forming the new Union Election Commission, voter lists were scrutinized in 98 townships of 10 regions and states. Such scrutiny showed about four million voter lists between the list of township election sub-commissions and the immigration department. More than one million persons without citizenship scrutiny cards cast votes. More than 9 million of over 14 million ballot papers were used, and more than 5 million ballot papers were lost. Although the Tatmadaw sent a letter to solve the problems by holding the State Defence and Security Council meeting, the reason was showed not to do so under the law. They did not accept the postponement of the Hluttaw and the assignment of a third party to inspect the voting frauds. Hence, the Tatmadaw took over the State duty due to the assignment of the Pro Tem President. It was not Coup D'état.

Tomato price soars to K1,200 per viss

THE price of tomato has risen sharply to over K1,200 per viss from K600 per viss in Kyaukpadaung township, Mandalay region, said U Maung Zaw, a tomato grower from Lae Gwa village, Kyaukpadaung.

Thus, the growers have been making handsome profits, growing tomatoes.

"Kyaukpadaung township farmers are growing the tomato with the use of irrigation water. Firstly, each tomato seed is planted in each bag. After 15 days of planting, the nursery tomato plants are transplanted to the ground and given irrigation water. Then, the plants start to bloom and bear fruits after one month. The tomato plant in Kyaukpadaung township is being grown with the use of irrigation water. Most of the growers use the tomato seeds with the brand names—triple seven and triple one. Tomato can be grown in any place in water-resistant and strong weather condition," said U Min Nyo, a grower from Mone Gone village.

In the harvest season, the tomato could yield every two days. The tomato traders come to buy the tomatoes in the farmland. Then, the traders sell them back in the Myoma market in Kyaukpadaung town. The price of tomatoes has abruptly soared to K1,200 per viss from K600 per viss. The street vendors are selling tomatoes for around K1,000 per viss. Some are selling them even for K1,200 per viss.

Now, the tomato growers are happy, making a good profit. It is also an unexpected price for tomato farmers, according to the local farmers.—Ko Htein (KPD)/GNLM

Findings on ballot papers for Pyithu Hluttaw Election in Mahlaing Township

8. A total of 210 polling stations in 52 Village-tracts in 4 Wards of Mahlaing Township of Mandalay Region took out 138,979 ballots and used 97,208 ballots. It left 39,529 ballots instead of 41,771. The extra/shortage ballots and illegal extra ballots were found at respective poll stations. Findings were as follows:

Sr	Subject	Withdrawal	Used	Exact remaining	Remaining on the Ground	Difference
						Missing	Extra
1	Ward/village-tract ballots	130,906	96,723	34,183	30,795	3,738	350

9. It found 3,738 missing ballots and 350 extra ballots at 210 polling stations in 52 Village-tracts in 4 Wards of Mahlaing Township. It found 8,734 remaining ballots instead of 75,88 at the township election sub-commission and so the extra ballot was 1,146.

9 new cases of COVID-19 reported on 13 April, total figure rises to 142,605

MYANMAR'S COVID-19 positive cases rose to 142,605 after 9 new cases were reported on 13 April 2021 according to the Ministry of Health and Sports. Among these confirmed cases, 131,874 have been discharged from hospitals.—MNA

Health guidelines, important for Thingyan revellers

MAHA Thingyan, one of the traditional festivals, falls in mid-April yearly before Myanmar New Year Day. Myanmar people, young and old, are eager to enjoy the water throwing festival by treating refreshment to each other as a lovely Myanmar tradition.

This year, the government allows the construction of pavilions with 20 by 20 feet areas made of coconut palm leaves as country style. In fact, fresh palms of coconut plant used in traditional pavilions can give shade to the people.

To safely enjoy the festival, the Ministry of Health and Sports issued health guidelines recently because events on infection of Covid-19 continue in Myanmar. The infection rate may rise at the crowds according to the nature of the virus. As such, all the people need to abide by preventive measures of the pandemic strictly.

The infection rate may rise at the crowds according to the nature of the virus. As such, all the people need to abide by preventive measures of the pandemic strictly.

Generally, those wishing to enjoy the water splashing festival need to wear surgical masks and gloves without fail and often wash their washes with water and soap or hand sanitizer/gel.

They must take enough distance to each other, especially six feet in the minimum of physical distancing at all sites during the festival.

Moreover, if they suffer from symptoms of Covid-19 such as ailing, squeezing, coughing and sudden loss of smell and taste, they need to inform nearby health care units about such symptoms and should take medical treatments in time.

At the festival, all the people should supply refreshments to each other through a take-away system as an act of performing meritorious deeds.

As an important thing, those enjoying the festival must take care of their surgical masks. It is because the wet surgical masks cannot prevent infection of the virus. Hence, they need to change the wet surgical masks with new ones.

Thingyan is Myanmar's traditional festival. So, all the people have the rights to enjoy it happily. But, they all need to abide by health guidelines as part of taking care of infection of the pandemic, emphasize peace and tranquillity and preserve shame and fear of sinning in line with Myanmar's cultural traditions while paying homage to venerable Buddhist monks and respects to the season citizens.

Spinoza's Philosophical Determinism: A Brief Comparative Glimpse

By Dr Myint Zan

21 February 2021 (to use the historic present tense) is the 344th anniversary of the death of philosopher Baruch Spinoza (24 November 1632-21 February 1677). This article will only comment on a paragraph reproduced in English translation below in one of Spinoza's letters.

Stretching a bit or perhaps a lot the postulates of Spinoza's determinism -- as this writer discerns it -- it might have been pre-determined (that about 350 years after he wrote) I would comment on a few sentences in one of his letters in the late 17th century namely his 'stone analogy' (please see below)

To try to explain from my recollection and understanding of the 'stone postulate' (English translation excerpted below) Supposed, wrote Spinoza, a stone that was thrown into the air (I suppose by a human hand) has (human or human-like) consciousness it (the stone) would think that he (or) she or it is 'marching' out of its own free will.

But wrote Spinoza, the stone's trajectory has already been determined 'beforehand' at the time of the throw. (Query in the context of human beings, hundreds of billions of them who was or is the thrower? God? Accident? (in the widest, amorphous sense of the words or is it the Biblical 'The Word?') The 'Big Bang' about roughly (plus or minus a few hundred million years) 1380 million years ago? Or the formation of the Earth 4,500 million years (plus or minus a few hundred million years) ago? (Due to no fault of his Spinoza was not privy to the information about 'Big Bang' cosmology nor about the formation of the Earth which 20th century science postulated so to speak)

Human beings are not (from my understanding of Spinoza's stone analogy) 'dancing', 'living' or 'free-willing' to their own tunes.

Spinoza claimed that free-will is an illusion through this stone analogy which, I first read this around May 1970 in Myanmar language in either the second volume or third volume of the late Myanmar scholar U Aye Maung's (2 February 1914-11 May 2002) book in Myanmar ('Buddha and Buddhism').

Twenty-eight years later, I read it, in 1998 in English translation an essay in the book THE NIGHT IS LARGE written by the late Martin Gardner (October 1913- May 2010)

In my view, Spinoza's postulate is, if not contrary to, then at least does not conform to either Christian or modern (perhaps) not entirely Christian based philosophical concept of free will or, for that matter, lack of free will. It is also, in this writer's opinion, not in conformity with the canonical Buddhist doctrine of Karma (Sanskrit) or Kamma (Pali).

It may be closer to perhaps have shades of- though perhaps not identical with the Catholic philosopher Augustine (13 November 354- 30 August 430) claim that 'God' stood above time and have (perhaps?) have (had?) both foreordained and therefore has (had?) foreknowledge of the 'past, present and future'. It is also arguably analogized with though not fully equitable with the Protestant theologian Calvin's doctrine that the (Christian) God had already pre-ordained who will believe (in?) Him (?) (or if God is a she?) in 'Her'. Australian scholar Margaret Davies has written in her book Asking the law question that 'God', may as well be, a 'She' as Margaret continuously referred to 'God' as 'She'.

But Spinoza at least furtively, if not almost openly, rejects or eschews the (Christian) God idea in his DEUS SIV NATURE (God or nature) posit.

If Spinoza were to read (in Latin or Dutch translation) this comment, he may at least equivocate about my 'juxtaposition' of his views with that of Augustine and Calvin, who are even more adamant or 'determined' even than the gentle Spinoza that their views are right. (Spinoza apparently once wrote, according to her biographer Margaret Ghulla-Whur in 'Within Reason: A Life of Spinoza' that his is not the 'best philosophy' but the correct philosophy.)

Now, my brief attempts to juxtapose or posit Spinoza's views with the Buddhist doctrine of KAMMA, Canonical Theravada Buddhism arguably or ostensibly rejects the doctrine or idea that every human event (individual or collective, so to speak) are due or entirely due to the Will (will) of a Creator or Deity. (ဣန္ဒာရ နိဗ္ဗာန ဝေဟနိဋ္ဌိ) It also rejects the postulate or belief that every human phenomenon, vicissitudes are due to the actions of deeds and misdeeds done in past lives. (လူဝတ္တဝေဟနိဋ္ဌိ) Canonical Buddhism also rejects that human events, phenomena occur without any moral or metaphysical cause, (ဝေဟတုက အတိဒိသမိဋ္ဌိ) Kamma or Karma in Canonical Buddhism from this writer's readings while not totally relegating the actions of an individual's past lives as irrelevant, put more emphasis on current volitional actions and their current efforts volitional actions form or constitute one's own Karma.

I am not sure to what extent Spinoza's metaphysics based on the 'stone analogy' is furthest from or comparatively closer to any of the doctrines which I emphasize (in my reading and understanding) 'original' Buddhism seems to reject, but my view is that Spinoza's determinism both at the metaphysical and arguably theological. /moral levels also do not seem to fit in with Buddhist metaphysics and moral (?) framework of the Buddhist WELTANSCHAU-

UNG (world view) as well. And Canonical (rather than popular) Buddhism is also quite a far cry from the 'predestination' concept of both the Augustinian and Calvinistic kinds, albeit the adherence to a form or overemphasis on past lives actions almost solely determines individuals 'fate' seems to be in its own cultural and religious milieu a form of 'predestination' shorn of the 'Creator's Will' of some of the Christian theologians.

Spinoza, again due to no fault of his own, has apparently indeed almost certainly not aware and have not read even in summary Latin and Dutch translations the basic doctrine of Buddhism unlike the German philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer who flourished well over a century after Spinoza. This brief is to briefly add to a remark found in a letter written by Spinoza in commemorating his death anniversary of this philosopher

QUOTE
"Further conceive, I beg, that a stone, while continuing in motion, should be capable of thinking and knowing that it is endeavouring, as far as it can, to continue to move. Such a stone, being conscious merely of its own endeavour and not at all indifferent, would believe itself to be completely free and would think that it continued in motion solely because of its own wish. This is that human freedom, which all boast that they possess, and which consists solely in the fact, that men are conscious of their own desire, but are ignorant of the causes whereby that desire has been determined."

— Baruch Spinoza

UNQUOTE
Perhaps with an eye towards future centuries so that not only his writings but also his correspondence may be preserved, Spinoza had smartly hand-copied perhaps most of his letters (before he posted them). In his times in the late 17th century, there were no scanners, photocopy machines or cyclostyle machines, not to say email or 'Cloud Storage' facilities.

Pandemic poses new problems for anti-dopers

THE global reduction in travel and human contact over the last year may have played an important role in battling Covid-19 but it has added a new layer of complexity to fighting the doping cheats ahead of the Tokyo Olympics.

For more than a year, the anti-doping policemen of the sports world have been battling the restrictions imposed by the pandemic.

Social distancing, travel restrictions and the basic lack of knowledge about confirmed participants have all created problems for testers ahead of the Games which were originally scheduled for July-August 2020 before being pushed back a year.

For a part of last year, when the sports world shut down in March and April, there was effectively no testing.

It resumed when competition started again in the summer but under a range of restrictions as each nation imposed their own Covid regulations.

Anti-doping testing teams have faced a difficult year operating within the restrictions of the Covid-19 pandemic. PHOTO: AFP

"We test around 50 sports almost all over the world, so it's a logistical nightmare," explained Benjamin Cohen, the secretary general of the International Testing Agency (ITA), which leads the anti-doping programme for the International Olympic Committee (IOC).

One problem is the daily need to stay up to date with the regulations of each country.

"The testing department constantly has to update the list of national measures, for example to integrate the difficulty of collecting blood samples in certain countries due to the distancing rules," said Cohen.

Another problem is the practical difficulty that testers face when trying to do their job.

"We had a DCO who went to Dubai," Travis Tygart, the head of the American agency USADA, told AFP "And all the constraints they had to go through... take a Covid test, demonstrate they were negative, quarantine in the hotel for a period of time. "To then be at the event to do the testing. It was above and beyond anything we could have foreseen."

'Wide net'
The role of national anti-doping agencies has, by necessity, been strengthened. But not all are blessed with similar resources and nor are they endowed with the same integrity and zeal to weed out the cheats.

Record of Press Conference (4/2021) held on 9 April 2021 by the State Administration Council's Information Team

13. Firstly, U Maung Maung Tun, reporter of Voice of Myanmar (VOM), asked where the ballot papers were printed. How many numbers of ballots were printed? Who is the supervisor of this process? Was it conducted under a tender system or by UEC?

14. UEC member U Khin Maung Oo explained that relevant matters are also presented in former press conferences. All the ballots of 2010 and 2015 elections and by-elections are also ordered at the Ministry of Information as they are important. The order numbers were 139,331,120. The UEC also cooperated in this printing process. The ballots were printed in Yangon and Nay Pyi Taw Tatkon. The printing staff of MoI and director-level representative of UEC monitored the processes, including examining the ballots papers and also jointly granted the ballots.

15. Dr Zaw Than, reporter of Sankei Shimbun news agency, said he noticed the question of another reporter regarding the PR system of UEC in the former press conference. He asked about the potential of the PR system and how would the circumstance change if that system has good potential?

16. U Khin Maung Oo replied that Myanmar is currently adopting the FPTP system. When the officials met with the political party on 26 February 2021, the parties also proposed a PR system convenient with the country. Such a case was also briefed in the previous conferences. The officials also informed the political parties to send the papers regarding with PR system. Meanwhile, three political parties replied to them with documents about this system. The PR system is not a new one. A Hluttaw MP also urged the Hluttaw to decide for using PR system and carry out law amendment processes and UEC to practice the PR system during the first Amyotha Hluttaw session. The motion was accepted at Amyotha Hluttaw, and a commission on the PR system was formed. There were also reports to the commission. About ten political parties submitted letters to use the PR system instead of the FPTP system in the first Hluttaw Term. The PR system means the broad area of the constituency and designates the numbers of candidates. Then, the system selects the representatives in a ratio based on the votes of the candidates of political parties or independent candidates. There are various PR systems in the world.

There are about three systems mainly used in 80 countries. Therefore, the country should use a system that conforms with the Constitution, forming a government and political affairs. The three PR systems are Party List Proportional Representation System, Mix Member Proportional System and Single Transferable Vote (STV). Among these three systems, the first two are mostly common. The final one is not widespread in use for some issues like calculating or complexity. If the PR system is used, one should study such necessary things as the Constitution, whether they are in conformity with the Hluttaw Election Law; whether they are needed to be amended, effectiveness on self-administer division and zones according to the 2008 Constitution, the situation of Pyithu Hluttaw, Amyotha Hluttaw, Region/State Hluttaw to adapt the PR system, designation of constituencies which are convenient with PR system, calculation system on the ratio of parties and representatives, and voting results.

There are also procedures for it. It needs to hold coordination meetings with the relevant department and stakeholders like parties, civilian organizations. It needs to draft, amend and release the law and rules. It needs to provide pieces of training to the members of the sub-commission and poll heads. It also should raise public awareness for the voters. In practical sectors, systematic measures play a crucial role. In conclusion, the system, which is suitable for the country and is simple to understand for the voters, should be used. The initial findings are currently displayed, and efforts are being made by cooperating with the relevant political parties and organizations.

In conclusion, the system, which is suitable for the country and is simple to understand for the voters, should be used. The initial findings are currently displayed, and efforts are being made by cooperating with the relevant political parties and organizations.

17. Dr Soe Myint Oo, editor-in-charge of Myanmar Public Press, raised the question of whether vote-rigging affects the parties. How is these parties' existence in coming elections? Can the new parties make registration and when?

18. U Khin Maung Oo said that one-third of voting frauds and findings in inspections are released to date. But some of the cases are left to announce. But about half of the cases have already released. So the situation is just on the inspection by reviewing the overall vote-rigging and manipulation. For the registration of parties, there were announcements of former UEC. They once issued a large state when the 2020 General Election drew near, and they also said the registration was not allowed later that period. The current UEC will also release the information regarding the party registrations.

19. Editor-in-Chief Amet Dain of Ye Ye Tauk Journal commented that the country is under the state of emergency. The first thing is that the President has the authority to assign UEC according to the Constitution. But all the election-related matters are concerned with the UEC's decision, and so due to such weakness, the elderly have extreme beliefs on the President and UEC. Therefore, such deficiency can cause the loss of democracy in the country. None of the significant changes of UEC are seen in holding the election with which way according to the Constitution. Therefore, it is conducted with a PR system, and it can maintain democracy. Some of the parties are interested in this issue. Therefore, does the UEC have the plan to start that system by negotiating with the parties? When will the UEC meet with the parties?

20. U Khin Maung Oo replied that the UEC Chairman has already discussed this issue during the meeting with the parties on 26 February. The PR papers are accepted, and the officials will discuss these papers during the next 2 or 3 months. Then, all will coordinate for this issue. Therefore, the progress in this period will be announced soon.

21. The Editor-in-Chief of Ye Ye Tauk Journal continued that the country is far from a democratic pathway for another reason. The point is that there were parties who ran in the election with foreign assistance. I will present one piece of evidence for this case. On 10 April 2019, US Ambassador Scot Marciel once said in his speech, "There is no support to Myanmar but the US provided $950 million to NLD" during the stake-driving ceremony for the US Embassy Liaison Office in Nay Pyi Taw. Although I thought it was National Democratic Party and the party Chair U Soe Maung also opposed this issue. The next reason is that, the US embassy provided $46 million in the election period. But that time, the UEC Chairman said they did not receive any financial assistance. Then, the NLD's spokesperson said the processes are being conducted in the scope of government authority, and the government will manage this issue. In reality, Monwya Aung Shin is not the representative of the government and is just representative of the party. He made a response in this case and talked about the financial management system of government. But there is no objection to UEC in this case. Therefore, these facts are the main reason that the country is far from a democratic pathway. How is the plan of the current UEC regarding these issues?

22. Then, U Khin Maung Oo said the Constitution stated Chapter 9 – Election, Chapter 10 – Political Parties and Chapter 11 – Provisions on the State of Emergency. But we are concerned with Chapter 9 and 10. In Constitution, it includes only six sections for political parties. Similarly, there are also Political Party Registration Law and Rules. In this law, a party must follow the stipulations of Section 6, and if they break Section 12, they have no right to subsist. However, the primary source is stipulated in the Constitution, and it is Section 407. If a political party infringe one of the following stipulations, it shall have no right of continued existence: (a. having been declared an unlawful association under the existing law; b. directly or indirectly contacting or abetting the insurgent group launching an armed rebellion against the Union or the associations and persons determined by the Union to have committed terrorist acts or the association declared to be an unlawful association; c. directly or indirectly receiving and expending financial, material and other assistance from a foreign government, a religious association, other association or a person from a foreign country; d. abusing religion for political purpose. Therefore, if the commission received solid evidence, actions will be taken in accordance with the law.)

23. The Chief Editor of Ye Ye Tauk Journal also said the term of the State Administration Council is one year. The UEC should carry No (1) and No (5) out of the five future work programmes of the Council. Although it has been three months in carrying out the No (1) programme, it just completed only half of the process.

The public wants to know about abolishing parties that are not pursuant to the election law and rules, reviewing the new parties, amendment of election law, and work plans as the elections draw near. Does the UEC have a timetable for these processes, and how is the schedule?

24. U Khin Maung Oo explained the work plans in implementing the No (1) out of five future work programmes of the SAC. Then, the UEC reviews the PR system, including the Constitution and election law in a timely manner. The outcomes and decisions will also be announced to the public later.

25. Editor-in-Chief of NP News (National Post) U Kyaw Myo Win said the SAC has already announced the holding of the election. But what will happen if the people have no trust in this election or do not accept the holding of an election, or do they not cast their votes, or do most of the parties not compete in the election?

26. U Khin Maung Oo said there are law and rules in every process. There are also procedures for election and work plans to be conducted in the election period. But they will be carried out in line with the law and rules. They also have full provisions.

27. Editor-in-Chief of NP News (National Post) U Kyaw Myo Win asked if the proper numbers of people cast votes, the election would be a successful election.

29. U Khin Maung Oo

continued that the UEC will announce in accord with the election process while other officials will register the lists. But the UEC has not faced such a situation yet, and the previous elections were also successfully held despite the challenges. Therefore, the UEC will carry out in accordance with the law, rules and guidelines for the coming election.

29. The journalist of Pyidaungsu Daily Newspaper U Ko Ko Lwin said he would ask about public healthcare regarding CDM. There are CDMs and Non-CDMs currently. For example, if there are many doctors like a doctor from Kan Htoo Ma station hospital of Taze Township, how will the SAC appreciate them? How will the SAC take action against the healthcare staff who fail to enter their duties despite the warnings of SAC?

30. Maj-Gen Zaw Min Tun said the Non-CDM doctor from Kan Htoo Ma station hospital did not join CDM not because of the government but because of the patients. The government also in this sector. The government employees should perform their duties in professional ways.

31. Then, reporter U Ko Ko Lwin said the quick arrest of suspects under Section 505 and other Sections is needed, and it also needs to take actions against them. Some of the destructive manners can be seen in some wards and villages. Although the suspects who commit incitement to affect the stability of State are announced in state-run newspapers, MRTV and MWD, there are very few numbers of audience. He asked if there were plans to publish vinyl photos in each township.

32. Maj-Gen Zaw Min Tun appreciated his advice. He also said there are also suggestions regarding the cases occurring at a low level. The SAC knows about social bullying and threats. The SAC knows everything is happening at the lower level. The officials investigate the cases and seek confirmations. He also admitted that they could not offer complete safety in these cases. But the SAC is making efforts for safety and work plans, cooperated areas and sub-areas, implementation of decisions made by submitting an approval of fund. On the same day, Union Minister for Investment and Foreign Economic Relations U Aung Naing Oo attended the ASEAN Economic Ministers Meeting. He discussed the important role of private sectors in region economy integration, cooperation work in processes of ASEAN Business Advisory Council in 2021, the commitment of Myanmar to carry out the international agreements in accord with the stipulated laws and to safeguard the businesses allowed in the former government term and priority sectors in solving the difficulties of permitted businesses. On 5 March, Vice-Chairman of SAC Vice-Senior General Soe Win met with the US Ambassador via video conferencing while Union Minister for Foreign Affairs U Wunna Maung Lwin met with Japanese Ambassador on 8 March and Vice-Chairman of SAC Vice-Senior General Soe Win discussed with the Head of the European Union Military Staff (EUMS) via video conferencing on 9 March. Moreover, the 11th ASEAN Military Operation Meeting was held via video conferencing on 10 March. Union Minister for Information U Chitt Naing and party also attended the 15th ASEAN Ministers Responsible for Information Meeting and exchanged views on ASEAN: A Digital Community with Accessibility for All. Then, the 46th regular meeting of the Human Rights Council was also held on 11 March. The Permanent Secretary of Foreign Affairs U Chan Aye sent his video message and joined the meeting online. Moreover, Union Minister for Foreign Affairs U Wunna Maung Lwin met with Brunei's Foreign Minister via video conference.

The Chairman of SAC Commander-in-Chief of Defence Services joined the 18th ASEAN Chiefs of Defence Forces' Meeting online. The Deputy Defence Minister of the Russia Federation attended the 76th Armed Forces Day. These are the cooperation work between the international countries and the government's performance just in March. Therefore, recognition or non-recognition are just the words of unscrupulous persons. The SAC has the proper relationship between the international countries and neighbouring countries. The government exercises independent and active foreign policy.

think that the government employees must serve the interests of the public no matter what the government is. But they have the right to show their attitude, such as they are satisfied with the government or not.

The government also refers to such an attitude. All the operations from the rank of clerk to senior officials are professional ones. And so they must have professional manners. The SAC also presents prizes to dutiful employees and provides assistance to the staff of ministries, especially in the Thingyan period. The government and ministries operate the machine as normal. In health sectors, although there are weaknesses, it can work in full soon as the military medics participate tranquillity across the nation.

33. Correspondent U Thwin Htoo Aung of ONE News said some international community does not recognize the current situation. He then asked whether there was cooperation between international countries.

34. Maj-Gen Zaw Min Tun replied that the one-month performance is being broadcast via MRTV and MWD per month. Therefore, international relations will be one of these performances. The 17th BIMSTEC Ministerial Meeting was held on 1 April via video conferencing, and Union Minister for International Cooperation U Ko Ko Hlaing joined the meeting. Then, they discussed the cooperation, infrastructure development, effective

Riotous insurgents attack camps of security forces

ACCORDING to the Myanmar Police Force's press release, crowds of riotous insurgency attacked bases of security forces and members by taking advantage of surprise.

At about 8:30 pm on 12 April, some 30 members of an armed insurgent group (under scrutiny) taking positions from east, north and west wings opened fire at Kinmunchaung police station in Kyaikto Township.

Servicemen of the camp led by the camp leader performed counter-attack against the insurgents. At about 9:10 pm, the insurgent group retreated from the scene. In the incident, no servicemen and families were injured.

At 9:15 am yesterday, insurgents exploded a mine (under scrutiny) against a patrol convoy at the junction of Zay Road in Ayemyatha ward. Four security personnel on board the patrol vehicle were injured and sent to the military hospital.

So, security forces performed appropriate security operation around the scene.

At 10 am yesterday, some ten rioters attacked security forces on the duty of security at No 4 Basic Education High School in Ward 13 of Myingyan with the use of homemade guns, catapults and iron hooks. Counter-attacks of the security forces cracked down the rioters at 10:10 am. — MNA

Jaggery price in bear market this year

THE jaggery price in Kyaukpadaung Township, NyaungU District, Mandalay Region remains bearish from the early toddy season.

Jaggery fetched only K1,200 per viss (a viss equals 1.6kg) in April, showing a small decrease of K300 as against last year. Regardless of Thingyan Festival, the demand is pretty weak this year.

The palm tree that bears the fruits is the female tree, and that has the stalks of the fruit is male palm tree. Mainly the male palm tree gives more date sap than the female tree. The male palm tree season is going to expire, and the female palm tree season is going to start. Yet, the price is on the downward trend.

There is a vast area of toddy palm farm in NyaungU Township. However, the jaggery cannot keep up with the sugar business. Moreover, the local jaggery business is less popular among young people. Earlier, all the villagers solely relied on toddy palm cultivation. At present, the number of toddy palm farmer dropped by half, said a farmer U Soe Win.

The toddy palm tree climbing is a traditional business in Ngathayouk town in NyaungU

District. Yet, the industry is not financially secure. Consequently, the local people migrate to South Korea, Singapore, Thailand and Malaysia for agriculture and hard labour. The growing number of migrant workers from Ngathayouk town are seen.

The toddy season starts in January and February in Ngathayouk town. The business is physically demanding but less secure. The toddy palm tree climbers and jaggery makers closely observe the market to produce the jaggery.

Jiggery price is declining. The local people from the central part of the country are struggling to survive from the production of jaggery and palm juice only. Sometimes, palm fruits are used as snacks as well as feedstuff. It was believed as a product with a low grade. Some trees were even cut down to use as firewood in the previous years. -- KPD/ GNLM

Pigeon pea price remains on the rise

ACCORDING to the Win Win depot from Mandalay, the pigeon pea (red gram) price continues rising in early April. It fetched up to K90,000 per three-basket bag on 10 April.

The traders set the selling price at K90,000 per bag. The majority of them accept only immediate cash payment.

The pigeon pea market is expected to remain bullish even after the Thingyan holidays (13-19 April), a trader from the Mandalay market shared his opinion.

The pigeon pea price was on the rise in March-end 2021 amid the low yield and the dollar gain.

According to the domestic market, the pigeon peas market saw a slight upward trend in price along with the appreciation of the US dollar against Kyat.

The price showed a remarkable increase of K16,000-18,000 as against January's rate.

As there is no demand by India, the traders are keeping them for now, said U Myo Swe from Mandalay wholesale market.

Myanmar's pigeon peas are primarily shipped to India and exported to Singapore, the US, Canada, Pakistan, the UK, and Malaysia.

But, the export volume to other countries rather than to India is minimal.

More than 249,245 tonnes of various pulses and beans were exported to foreign markets between 1 October and 4 December of the current financial year 2020-2021, with an estimated value of US$217 million.

Of them, the pigeon pea export accounted for 83,758 tonnes, generating an income of $57.94 million, the Commerce Ministry's data indicated.

Myanmar's agriculture sector is the backbone of the country's economy, and it contributes to over 30 per cent of Gross Domestic Products.

The country primarily cultivates paddy, corn, cotton, sugarcane, various pulses and beans.

Its second-largest production is the pulses and beans, counting for 33 per cent of agro products and covering 20 per cent of growing acres.

Among them, black gram, pigeon peas and green grams constitute 72 per cent of bean acreage.

Other beans, including peanut, chickpea, soy pea, black-eyed beans, butter bean and rice bean, are also grown in the country.

The domestic bean market is positively related to supply and demand law, said Secretary U Min Ko Oo of Myanmar Pulses, Beans and Sesame Seeds Merchants Association.

Since 2017, India has been setting import quota on beans, including black grams and pigeon peas.

Therefore, the growers face difficulties to export their beans to the Indian market.

India's restriction of the importation of pulses in August 2017 severely affected growers in Myanmar.

The price of pulses also drastically plummeted.

In the 2017-2018 FY, over a million tons of black grams, pigeon peas, and green grams were shipped to foreign countries.

Nevertheless, the earnings were registered at just $713 million owing to the price drop.

Myanmar shipped over 1.6 million tonnes of different varieties of pulses, especially black grams, with an estimated worth of US$1 billion, to other countries in the FY2018-2019.

During last FY2019-2020 ended 30 September, the country delivered 1.6 million tonnes with an estimated value of $1.195 billion. — MM/GNLM

Myanmar-Thai border trade reached $1.9 bln in FY2020-21

BILATERAL border trade between Myanmar and Thailand reached over US$1.9 billion as of 2 April in the current budget year 2020-21, which started in October, according to the Ministry of Commerce.

The country's export to Thailand totalled $1.3 billion while its import shared $589 million during the period.

Compared to the same period in the last FY, the financial year's figures declined by $370.

Myanmar mainly conducts border trade with neighbouring Thailand through seven border checkpoints — Tachilek, Myawady, Kawthoung, Myeik, Hteekhee, Mawtaung and Maese.

During the over six-month period, the Myawady land border topped with $729 million of bilateral trade. Myanmar primarily exports natural gas, fishery products, coal, tin concentrate, coconut (fresh and dry), beans, corns, bamboo shoots, sesame seeds, garment, footwear, plywood and veneer, broken rice and other commodities to Thailand. It imports capital goods such as machinery, raw industrial goods such as cement and fertilizers, and consumer goods such as cosmetics, edible vegetable oil and food products from the neighbouring country.

It is about a six-hour drive from the commercial capital. The visitor can also reach Bird Island, lovers Island, Snake Island, and three pagodas through Ngwehsaung beach.

Road links between Yangon-Pathein and Pathein-Ngwehsaung have upgraded, and delivery of freshwater has also developed.

Agro exports soar to $2.95 bln in current FY

THE agricultural exports have topped US$2.95 billion as of 2 April 2021 in the current financial year since 1 October 2020. According to the Ministry of Commerce, the figures reflect a significant rise of $809.8 million this FY, according to the trade figures released by the Ministry of Commerce.

The agro exports were registered $2.14 billion in the corresponding period of the 2019-2020 FY.

The agricultural exports unexpectedly surge regardless of the coronavirus’s impact on foreign demand for other export groups and political changes.

At present, some ocean liners suspended cargo transport from Myanmar in recent days. The cargo transport will double or triple if we conduct the trade with small ships. It could harm the export sector somehow, according to Myanmar Mercantile Marine Development Association.

However, Myanmar’s border trade with China is steadily conducted. Around 1,000 trucks are daily seen flowing in and out of the Muse, a central cross-border post between Myanmar and China, the traders said.

Myanmar is daily shipping rice, broken rice, green grams, peanuts, various pulses and beans, onion, chilli, fishery products, consumer goods, watermelon and muskmelon to China with over 700 trucks. Meanwhile, building materials, electric appliances, medical devices, consumer goods, and fertilizer are imported daily with 200 trucks.

The closure of private banks forced the traders to turn to the operators running ‘hundi’, an informal money transfer system, in order to make transactions in the border trade.

In the exports sector, the agriculture industry performed the best, accounting for over 22 per cent of overall exports. The chief export items in the agricultural industry are rice and broken rice, pulses and beans and maize. Fruits and vegetables, sesame, dried tea leaves, sugar, and other agro products are also shipped to other countries.

Myanmar agro products are primarily exported to China, Singapore, Malaysia, the Philippines, Bangladesh, India, Indonesia, and Sri Lanka. Sometimes, the export market remains uncertain due to unsteady global demand.

The country requires specific export plans for each agro product. They are currently exported to external markets based upon supply and demand. Contract farming systems, regional and state agriculture departments, exporters, traders, and some grower groups must meet production targets, said an official from the Agriculture Department.

India-Myanmar border trade up by $78.8 mln amid strict border control

Between 1 October and 2 April in the current budget year, trade values were registered at over $31.15 million via Tamu border and $124 million via Reed.

THE value of border trade between India and Myanmar jumped to US$155 million between 1 October and 2 April period of the current financial year 2020-2021 amid the closure of border posts by India. The figures reflected an increase of $78.8 million as against a year-ago period.

India tightened border control in the wake of the coronavirus pandemic. The traders suffered the negative impact of the outbreak. The cross-border trade between Myanmar and India has become sluggish. The reopening of the crossings has been put off for now.

Myanmar conducts border trade with neighbouring India through Tamu, Reed, and Htantlang border posts.

Between 1 October and 2 April in the current budget year, trade values were registered at over $31.15 million via Tamu border and $124 million via Reed. There was no trade recorded at the Htantlang post.

Myanmar exports mung beans, pigeon peas, green grams, areca nuts, ginger, saffron, turmeric, bay leaves, fishery products, fruits, and vegetables to India. At the same time, it imports pharmaceuticals, oil cakes, electronic appliances, motorbikes, steel and other construction machines and building materials from the neighbouring country. — KK/GNLM

Jordan royal feud stirs unease in Saudi Arabia

SAUDI Arabia fervently denies involvement in Jordan's royal feud, but the arrest of an advisor to Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman has stirred unease in Riyadh, which sources say is pushing for his release.

Bassem Awadallah, seen as an influential figure familiar with the inner workings of the Saudi leadership, was ensnared in a rift within Jordan's royal family that played out in full public glare.

Riyadh officially threw its support behind Jordan's King Abdullah II, who has sought to draw a line under the damaging row with his half-brother Prince Hamzah as state television showed them together on Sunday for the first time since the crisis erupted.

Saudi officials dismiss speculation it was behind the split, insisting that such royal infighting could have dangerous ripple effects for other monarchies in the tinderbox region.

The speculation arose as Jordan suggested a "foreign" hand was behind the crisis, with observers immediately pointing the finger of suspicion at Riyadh.

The crisis followed media reports that warming Saudi-Israel ties could cost Jordan -- home to a large Palestinian population -- its custodianship of Jerusalem's holy sites including Al-Aqsa mosque, a key source of legitimacy for Amman's ruling Hashemite dynasty.

But a source close to the leadership of Saudi Arabia, no stranger to royal ructions, told AFP that Riyadh has "zero interest in destabilising Jordan", a longstanding regional ally.

Saudi Foreign Minister Prince Faisal bin Farhan led a delegation to Amman last week to express what he called solidarity with Abdullah. The trip came, the source said, as Saudi rulers felt "the (Jordanian) king was being fed rumours by other parties that they needed to refute in person and not over the phone".—AFP ■

Ramadan breeds dread in crisis-hit Iraq

FACED with sharp price rises, a decline in the buying power of the dinar and rising unemployment, Iraqis enter the Muslim fasting month of Ramadan with a feeling of dread.

"After a whole day of fasting, we have to eat something," even if the price of a kilo of tomatoes has more than doubled, said Umm Hussein, a single mother of five who has no salary.

She struggles each month to raise the $45 rent for their modest home.

Like 16 million of Iraq's 40-million population living under the poverty line, Umm Hussein relies on her ration card for food.

Under the legacy from the 1990s when Iraq's Saddam Hussein was under a stringent international embargo, every Iraqi whose household heads earns less than $1,000 a month is entitled to certain basic provisions at subsidised prices.

But this year, "we've only received the rations for February", said Abu Seif, 36, who like his father before him has the job of distributing bags of subsidised goods.

"We still haven't got the rations for Ramadan," during which Muslims fast from sunrise to sunset, a period that starts this week.

Prime Minister Mustafa al-Kadhemi had promised extra rations for the holy month. But "people are coming in or calling every day to ask when they're arriving", said Abu Seif. —AFP ■

Minneapolis under curfew after officer shoots Black motorist dead

FRESH protests broke out Tuesday night in Minneapolis despite a curfew implemented after a police officer fatally shot a young Black man when she appeared to confuse her handgun with her taser, fueling tensions in a US city already on edge because of the George Floyd murder trial.

Shortly before 9:00 pm local time (0200GMT Tuesday), nearly two hours after the curfew went into effect, dozens of protesters continued to wave signs and chant slogans in front of the police station in Brooklyn Centre, where Sunday's killing occurred.

Demonstrators taunted police through newly-erected wire fencing around the station, and carried signs saying "Jail all racist killer cops," "Am I next?" and "No justice, no peace".

Police fired tear gas at the protesters several times and ordered them to disperse.

This was the second consecutive night of protests after 20-year-old Daunte Wright was shot dead by police while driving with his girlfriend.

In police body camera video released earlier Monday in Brooklyn Centre, an officer shouts "Taser! Taser! Taser!" but then instead fires a gun at the victim.

"The officer drew their handgun instead of their taser," said Brooklyn Centre police chief Tim Gannon.

Gannon said it was his belief that the officer, now on leave pending an investigation, "had the intention to deploy their taser but instead shot Mr Wright with a single bullet." —AFP ■

Mexican villagers take anti-narco fight into own hands

MEXICAN children toting replica rifles march alongside armed members of a self-defence force who say they have been left to defend their village against drug traffickers all by themselves.

The inhabitants of Ayahualtempa in violence-plagued Guerrero state accuse the authorities of abandoning them to their fate despite past killings and kidnappings. They blame a local gang called Los Ardillos which they say is seeking to muscle into their village of bean and maize (corn) farmers located in a major opium producing region.

At least nine locals have been murdered since 2019, but the residents complain that their pleas to the authorities have fallen on deaf ears.

"It's been 15 months since the government came here and promised to support us. So far we haven't seen any help," said self-defence leader Bernardino Sanchez. Chayo joined the community police force at the age of 15. —AFP ■

Olympic torchbearers run laps in empty Osaka park due to COVID spike

TORCHBEARERS for this summer's Tokyo Olympics on Tuesday ran laps in an empty park in Osaka after the flame relay in the western Japan prefecture was rerouted from public roads due to a sharp rebound in coronavirus infections.

A day before the 100-day milestone to the opening of the Olympics, Osaka, a metropolis that recently has been hit by record numbers of daily COVID-19 infections, became the first prefecture in Japan to give up on holding the relay in its planned format.

Runners carried the flame for about 200 meters in the Expo '70 Commemorative Park in Suita, which was closed to the public, instead of on public roads where large crowds could have gathered.

Each was allowed to invite up to four people to watch, including family.

More than 100 torchbearers are scheduled to run over two days at the park in Osaka, the 10th prefecture that the flame has visited since the start of the relay on March 25, while public support for the Olympics remains low in Japan.

With the event being streamed online, many torchbearers waved and posed for cameras during their run in the park, which was created on the site of the 1970 Japan World Exposition and known for the iconic Tower of the Sun artwork by the late Taro Okamoto. —Kyodo News ■

AUSTRIAN Adi Huetter will quit as Eintracht Frankfurt head coach at the end of the season to take charge of Bundesliga rivals Borussia Moenchengladbach, both clubs confirmed Tuesday.

After weeks of speculation, Huetter, 51, will sign a three-year contract as head coach of Gladbach, replacing Marco Rose, 44, who is leaving to take over at Borussia Dortmund for the 2021/22 season.

With six games left, fourth-placed Frankfurt are on the verge of qualifying for the Champions League next season. They have a five-point lead over fifth-placed Dortmund.

In contrast, Gladbach are eighth in Germany's top flight, 13 points from a place in the Champions League.

More Ibrahimovic controversy after lockdown restaurant 'meeting'

ZLATAN Ibrahimovic was again in the headlines for non-football reasons on Monday after he was reportedly pictured in a Milan restaurant while the city was in a coronavirus lockdown.

Italian news website Fanpage published photos it says were taken at lunchtime on Sunday of the AC Milan forward with friends, all without masks and surrounded by wine glasses, in the restaurant which should have been closed to on-site diners.

of lockdown in the Lombardy region where Milan is located and several other regions with improving contagion statistics.

Lombardy will be reclassified from a "red zone" area to an "orange" area, where people face fewer travel curbs, shops can reopen, although a ban on dining in bars and restaurants remains.

A source from Ibrahimovic's entourage claimed to AFP that the Sweden attacker was there for a "work meeting", while the restaurant's owner Tano Simonato told Fanpage that the group, which he says also included former Milan player Ignazio Abate, had not eaten in the restaurant.

"They didn't eat, as friends we had a glass of wine," Fanpage quoted Simonato as saying.

The photos caused controversy also because in the autumn Ibrahimovic, who contracted Covid-19 in September, promoted social distancing and mask wearing for the Lombardy regional government. —AFP ■
