Union Minister U Shwe Lay inspects road, bridge development works in Shan State (East)

The MoC Union Minister and party are inspecting the road and bridge development works in Kengtung on 23 April.

UNION Minister for Construction U Shwe Lay, accompanied by Brig-Gen Myo Min Tun, Commander of the Triangle Regional Military Command, inspected the concrete paving work of the Naungin-Wan Sai (Lwe) Road implemented by the Kengtung District's Rural Development as a strategic project on 23 April. Naungin-Wan Sai (Lwe)

Concrete Road is classified as Class A and consists of 4 miles of concrete road and 3 miles 6 furlongs of murrum road. Implementing this road will benefit 17 villages, 927 households, and more than 5,000 people. It will be a lucrative route for domestic and foreign tourists.

Afterwards, the Union Minister and party arrived at the construction site of Kengtung bypass (10 km long and 7-metre-wide) on the Meiktila-Taunggyi- Kengtung-Tachilek route.

The Union Minister and the Commander said the construction of the bypass road would help alleviate traffic congestion in the city and traffic safety and the development of the surrounding villages and areas, adding that it is necessary to meet the set standards in line with the road features.

They instructed to include the road signs and drainage works systematically and inspected the construction work.

The official from the Bridge Department presented the status of the construction of the bridges on the Kengtung bypass and further work plans. The Union Minister instructed to systematically calculate and check the waterway situation and pay special attention to the quality of the bridges due to the new road construction.

The Union Minister and the Commander inspected the mechanical widening, adjusting the slope of the road for the ups and downs of the mountain, the current condition of the road and planned a new lane and instructed the officials on the work requirements.—MNA

Myanmar-India border trade growths by $84.6 mln this FY

THE value of border trade between Myanmar and India soared to US$160 million between 1 October and 16 April period of the current financial year, an increase of $84.6 million, according to the statistics report of the Ministry of Commerce.

The Myanmar-India total border trade was shared by Myanmar's export of $ 160 million and its import of $0.8 million.

During the same period last year, India-Myanmar bilateral trade was $76.28 million in total. The country conducts border trade with neighbouring India through Tamu, Reed and Thantlang border trade camps. In contrast, a significant part of bilateral trade is delivered through ships.

During almost seven months of this FY, the trade value was registered at over $ 31.5 million via Tamu border and $129.4 million via Reed. But, there was no recorded trading at the Thantlang camp.

Myanmar exports mung beans, pigeon peas, green grams, areca nuts, ginger, saffron, turmeric, bay leaves, fishery products, fruits, and vegetables to India. At the same time, it imports pharmaceuticals, oil cakes, electronic appliances, motorbikes, steel and other construction machines and building materials from the neighbouring country.

India is one of Myanmar's top trading partners. The two countries inked a bilateral border trade agreement in 1994. —ACM/GLNM

Traders request reopening of Mang Wein in Muse border trade camp

THE traders asked for the reopening of the closed Mang Wein checkpoint at the Muse border trade point, said U Min Thein, the chair of Muse 105th Mile Rice Wholesale Centre.

Some crossing on the China side have been closed because of COVID-19. The exports of Myanmar cargo are not available recently. That is why the traders are asking the authorities to reopen the closed borders as soon as possible, he added.

"Muse border trading will grow only after reopening the gates rapidly by China. If they are continually closing the crossing indefinitely, the Muse border trading will be halted completely. Thus, we requested the authorities to reopen the closed broders," U Min Thein clarified.

On 29 March, a Myanmar national was found to be COVID-19 positive in the Kyauk Wine market in Kyalgaung. The next day, China restricted the border crossing at the Mang Wein checkpoint, which is one of the major border crossings between Muse and Kyalgaung.

Subsequently, the main export stuff — rice and broken rice, pulses, aquatic products, onion and chilli to China through the Mang Wein checkpoint were 100 per cent suspended.

In the first wave of COVID-19, there is minor damage as China permits the passage of cargo trucks under the driver changing system but suspended the passing of travellers. Now, China doesn't allow entry even though trucks can affect 100 per cent.

The five land borders linking China and Myanmar are Muse and in northern Shan State, Lwejel in Kachin State, Chin Shwehaw in northeastern Shan State, Kampaiti in Kachin State and Kengtung in eastern Shan State, according to the Ministry of Commerce.

However, Muse border sees an enormous volume and value of border trade with an estimated value of more than US$2.53 billion this FY between 1 October and 16 April, a decrease of over $35.3 million compared with the last year's figures of $3.35 million, the Ministry of Commerce's data showed. —NN

Rioters attack security forces: one killed and one injured

RIOTERS attacked the vehicle carrying the suspects with homemade guns in Katha Township, Sagaing Township, on 23 April. One member of the security forces was killed, and one was wounded due to the attack.

The incident happened at around 4 pm when members of the security forces were on the way taking Aung Ko Htet, 28, a resident of Aung Zeya Ward. He was arrested under Section 505-A of the Criminal Code to the Katha prison.

The security forces reinforced at the scene and opened fired on the rioters, dispersing the mob at around 5:50 pm.

The suspect was taken to the Katha prison.

Security forces are reportedly working to identify and arrest those involved in the violence and take effective action under the law. —MNA

Tripartite responsibilities for an increase of export volume, a decrease of commodity prices

The government is striving for increasing trade volume through the border and maritime trade routes.

The government allows the use of currencies such as dollar, yuan, rupee, baht and Myanmar kyat for exportation in border checkpoints of Muse, Lwejel, Myawady, Tachilek, Kawthoung, Myeik and Tamu.

Thanks to easing restrictions on the use of currencies, Myanmar and counterpart businesspersons can smoothly operate their business processes. Consequently, it contributes much towards ensuring the smooth and swift flow of commodities on both sides. Hence, consumers will have the rights of choosing the goods they like.

As a result, these border trade points in Myanmar handled total export volume worth K725,755.88 million and US$6,183.14 million within a year.

In fact, the government, the businesspersons and the consumers are responsible for increasing export volume of the State and decreasing prices of commodities depending on rationality in all aspects.

Entrepreneurs need to have an economic outlook in operating their businesses for serving the interests of the State and the people. Ministerial officials need to clarify the interests of the State and the people on the running of companies with loans, cash assistance, and foreign investments whenever they meet with relevant countries and organizations in discussions.

In fact, the government, the businesspersons and the consumers are responsible for increasing export volume of the State and decreasing prices of commodities depending on rationality in all aspects.

At the same time, Muse, Lwejel, Myawady, Tachilek, Kawthoung, Myeik and Tamu border trade zones and camps are allowed to use the dollar, yuan, rupee, baht and kyat in import of goods.

Myanmar imports various kinds of goods worth more than US$884 million from China, that of over US$273 million from Singapore and that of more than US$262 million from Thailand up to November 2020 of the 2020-21 fiscal year.

However, Myanmar's trade volume through the border trade route was valued at US$5.6 billion from 1 October 2020 to 2 April 2021 of the 2020-21 fiscal year, in comparison with US$5.864 billion in the same period of the previous fiscal year.

Both government organizations and the private sector should emphasize manufacturing quality products such as value-added products to be exported to neighbours for booming the economy. Meanwhile, efforts must be made for surging this fiscal year's export volume, rather than the previous fiscal year.

90 per cent of countries' health services disrupted by the COVID-19 pandemic

Over one year into the COVID-19 pandemic and 90% of essential health services. The findings of the second WHO survey show that no substantial global change has been made since

THERE are some signs of progress however: in 2020, countries surveyed reported that, on average, about half of essential health services were disrupted. In the first 3 months of 2021, that figure had dropped to just over one third of services.

Overcoming disruptions

Many countries have now stepped up efforts to mitigate disruptions. These include informing the public about changes to service delivery and providing advice about ways to safely seek health-care. They are identifying and prioritizing patients with the most urgent needs.

More than half the countries say they have recruited additional staff to boost the health workforce; redirected patients to other care facilities; and switched to alternative methods to delivering care, such as providing more home-based services, multi-month prescriptions for treatments, and increasing the use of telemedicine.

WHO and its partners have also been helping countries to better respond to the challenges being placed on their health systems; strengthen primary healthcare, and advance universal health coverage.

"It is encouraging to see that countries are beginning to build back their essential health services, but much remains to be done", said Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, Director General of WHO.

"The survey highlights the need to intensify efforts and take additional steps to close gaps and strengthen services. It will be especially important to monitor the situation in countries that were struggling to provide health services before the pandemic."

Conditions persist

Countries are still having to make important decisions when responding to COVID-19, that may negatively affect access to care for other health issues.

Redeployment of staff to provide COVID-19 relief and temporary closures of health facilities and services continue, the UN health agency said.

Although they may have taken on new staff, 66% of countries continue to report health workforce-related reasons as the most common causes of service disruptions.

Supply chains are also still disrupted in nearly one third of countries, affecting the availability of essential medicines, diagnostics, and the PPE needed to safely

India's Covid crisis

INDIA is reeling from a new coronavirus surge, stretching hospitals to the limit with dire shortages of beds, oxygen and drugs.

With more than 2,000 people dying daily, AFP looks at the reasons for the vicious new wave and why the health care system is overwhelmed.

'Herd immunity'

While the pandemic raged elsewhere at the start of 2021, in India daily infections slid to under 9,000 with fewer than 80 deaths.

This raised hopes that India, despite having some of the planet's most densely populated cities, had somehow escaped the worst.

Blood surveys suggested that a hefty proportion of the population might have antibodies and that India might have achieved "herd immunity".

Other possible factors cited were India's young population and that greater exposure to other pathogens increased resistance to the virus.

But possibly because of a new variant, cases took off again in March. This month alone India has recorded more than four million new infections.

Cricket and Kumbh

As cases started falling in October and November, the Hindu nationalist central government and state authorities allowed most activity to return to near normal levels.

Bollywood productions resumed, lavish weddings returned and spectators watched India thrash England at cricket in Chennai and at the huge new Narendra Modi stadium.

Tens of thousands of farmers took part in demonstrations against new agriculture laws and people thronged religious festivals such as Durga Puja and Dussehra.

The biggest was the Kumbh Mela in Haridwar, which between January and this week was attended by upwards of 25 million Hindu pilgrims.

Supply chains are also still disrupted in nearly one third of countries, affecting the availability of essential medicines, diagnostics, and the PPE needed to safely and effectively provide care. More than half of countries report service disruptions due to patients not seeking care and because of mistrust and fears of becoming infected.

Meanwhile, 43% of countries, cite financial challenges as major causes for disruptions.

Impacts Millions of people are still missing out on vital healthcare, the WHO data shows. Nearly half of countries reported that the most affected area was the provision of day-to-day primary care to prevent and manage some of the most common health problems.

Long term care for chronic conditions, rehabilitation, and palliative end-of-life care, is also still badly disrupted. 20% of countries says potentially life-saving emergency, critical and surgical care interventions are still disrupted and two thirds of countries also report disruptions in elective surgeries.

Among the most extensively affected health services are mental, neurological and substance use disorders; neglected tropical diseases; tuberculosis; HIV and hepatitis B and C; cancer screening, and services for other non-communicable diseases including hypertension and diabetes; family planning and contraception; urgent dental care; and malnutrition.

More than one third of countries are still reporting disruptions to immunization services, despite 20% and 30% less disruption compared to 2020.

"We cannot allow today's fight against COVID-19 to undermine our fight against measles, polio or other vaccine preventable illnesses. Prolonged immunization disruptions will have long-term consequences for children's health. The time to catch up is now," said Henrietta Fore, UNICEF Executive Director.

40% of countries are also reporting disruptions to one or more malaria services. While 10% fewer countries reported disruptions to malaria diagnosis and treatment compared to 2020 and 25-33% fewer countries reporting disruptions to malaria prevention campaigns, the level of disruption is still significant and needs to be urgently addressed, said WHO in a statement.

WHO support

The agency said it will continue to support countries so they can respond to increased strains on health systems.

This includes supporting mechanisms to speed up equitable access to COVID-19 vaccines, tests and treatments, and the Strategic Preparedness and Response Plan, which guides actions taken at national, regional, and global levels to tackle COVID-19.

The organization is also focused on delivering the work it committed to before the pandemic. Through the "Boost initiative" which covers 115 countries, it has strengthened its capacity to provide additional support, so countries can maintain essential health services during the pandemic, and advance progress towards universal health coverage.

Most major companies failing climate targets - study

Oil companies, major producers of greenhouse gas emissions, are targeted by climate litigators and activists. Here, before the Supreme Court in New York on the first day of the Exxon Mobil trial, October 22, 2019. PHOTO: AFP

FEWER than one in four of the world's largest companies are on track to meet basic climate change targets, according to a new study published on Thursday.

Findings of the survey of nearly 700 listed firms in 14 countries from 2015 to 2019 were unveiled on the day US

President Joe Biden launches a virtual climate summit.

According to British investment firm Arabesque, just under a quarter (24.84 per cent) of the world's large listed companies have taken action to limit global warming to 1.5 Celsius.

European companies are the best performers, particularly in Sweden (50 per cent), Germany (39.29 per cent) and Finland (33.33 per cent). France is just behind (32.5 per cent), followed by Britain and the United States (both on 23.08 per cent). China (8.51 per cent) and Australia (4.55 per cent) trail behind.

But the study found that 15 per cent of the companies listed on leading indices, including the FTSE 100, S&P 100, DAX and Nikkei, do not publish their greenhouse gas emissions. The proportion even increases to 29 per cent for the Chinese Hang Seng.

The 2015 Paris Agreement seeks to limit global warming at 2.0 degrees Celsius (5.4 Fahrenheit) above pre-industrial levels, and if possible, no more than 1.5 Celsius. The 1.5-degree target is proving difficult to achieve but 70 per cent of firms are expected to meet the 2.0-degree figure by 2030.

"Declarations of good intention by themselves are not going to lead to the required timely actions," said Arabesque chairman Georg Kell. "In fact, despite the growing number of commitments, average carbon dioxide levels in the atmosphere have increased since 2015. This year is a potential turning point, offering corporate leaders a chance to think big and to act accordingly. But time is running out."

Biden has invited 40 world leaders to a virtual Earth Day summit, including China's President Xi Jinping and his counterpart Vladimir Putin of Russia.

European lawmakers in Brussels on Wednesday reached a last-minute agreement with member states on a net reduction of "at least 55 per cent" of greenhouse gas emissions by 2030.

Britain's Prime Minister Boris Johnson on Tuesday vowed an ambitious 78 per cent cut to carbon emissions by 2035 compared to 1990 levels - 15 years earlier than once planned. —AFP ■

VW demands billion-euro 'dieselgate' payout from ex-CEO: report

AUTO giant Volkswagen is seeking more than a billion euros ($1.2 billion) in damages from ex-CEO Martin Winterkorn over the "dieselgate" emissions cheating scandal, German media reported on Friday.

The sum would be the highest ever claim for damages against a company executive in Germany, according to the Sueddeutsche Zeitung newspaper.

Volkswagen has written to Winterkorn to demand the sum, the bulk of which is likely to be covered by his liability insurance, the report said, without citing its sources.

Volkswagen and a source close to Winterkorn both declined to comment when contacted by AFP.

The Volkswagen group was plunged into crisis in 2015 when it admitted to installing cheating software in 11 million diesel vehicles worldwide to dupe pollution tests.

The scandal, based on allegations from the US Environmental Protection Agency, has so far cost the German car giant more than 30 billion euros ($35 billion) in fines, legal costs and compensation.

VW said in March it would be demanding compensation from Winterkorn, as well as Rupert Stadler, the former head of its Audi division, for "breach of duty" in connection with the affair. The company did not reveal how much it was seeking then. —AFP ■

Panasonic to buy AI logistics firm Blue Yonder for $7.1 bn

PANASONIC will buy American AI supply chain software firm Blue Yonder for $7.1 billion, the Japanese company said Friday.

The deal will make Blue Yonder a wholly owned subsidiary of the Japanese electronics giant, which has held 20 per cent of the US firm's shares since July last year.

Following regulatory approval, the deal will be one of the biggest acquisitions in Panasonic's history.

Blue Yonder has more than 3,000 clients worldwide, including multinationals Walmart and Coca Cola as well as airlines and couriers such as FedEx.

"The need for more intelligent, autonomous and edge-aware supply chains has been dramatically heightened by the Covid-19 pandemic," Panasonic said in a statement, citing "drastic shifts in supply demand" due to virus lockdowns.

The firm said the merger would allow it to gain expertise in "state-of-the-art" artificial intelligence technology, and would work to reduce waste in supply chains. —AFP ■

Start spreading the news: New York wants tourists back

NEW YORK City announced a $30 million advertising campaign Wednesday designed to entice tourists back to the Big Apple and revive an economy ravaged by the coronavirus pandemic.

Mayor Bill de Blasio described the marketing blitz, dubbed "NYC Reawakens" and set to launch in June, as the city's "largest-ever" drive to promote tourism. "We need to let people know we're open for business," he told reporters.

"It's safe, come here. Join this amazing moment. Come to this city that's been so heroic during this crisis," De Blasio added. New York is gradually reopening on the back of a vigorous vaccination rollout that is keeping Covid-19 positivity rates around five percent.

Sports teams including the New York Yankees and New York Knicks are playing in front of fans again while museums, restaurants and some shows are operating at reduced capacities.

Broadway, however, is not due to restart until September, although officials haven't ruled out an earlier return. —AFP ■

Fresh COVID emergency could dampen Japan's economic recovery hope

JAPAN'S fresh state of emergency over the coronavirus pandemic threatens to nip hopes for an economic recovery in the bud by further weakening consumption, economists warned.

Prime Minister Yoshihide Suga declared Friday a third state of emergency, effective from Sunday through May 11 in Tokyo as well as the western prefectures of Osaka, Kyoto and Hyogo, in an effort to curb a surge in COVID-19 during the upcoming Golden Week holidays, usually one of the busiest times of the year for travel.

Under the declaration, local authorities will impose tougher restrictions including the closure of establishments that serve alcohol, department stores and shopping malls.

Due to the impact of the emergency measures, "the economy will possibly see a negative growth in the current quarter," said Keiji Kanda, a senior economist at the Daiwa Institute of Research.

Many analysts had expected Japan's economy to rebound in the April-June period from a downturn in the previous quarter when the second state of emergency was in place for parts of the country including Tokyo, Osaka and other urban areas, notably hitting the food services industry with restaurants and bars requested to close early. Gross domestic product data for January to March is scheduled to be released next month. But economists are already pessimistic enough to forecast contraction in the world's third-largest economy.—Kyodo News ■

Pandemic pushes UK state borrowing to peacetime record

Retail sales by volume rose 5.4 per cent in March from February. PHOTO: AFP

EMERGENCY pandemic support measures sent UK annual borrowing rocketing to the highest level since World War II, official data showed on Friday.

Public sector net borrowing – the state's preferred measure of the deficit – ballooned to a record £303.1 billion (€349.8bn euros) in the year to March, the Office for National Statistics said in a statement.

And it was equivalent to 14.5 per cent of gross domestic product (GDP) – the highest proportion since 1946 when it stood at 15.2 per cent. Borrowing sky-rocketed in the 2020-2021 financial year as the UK government rushed to cushion the economic blow of COVID. And it contrasted sharply with borrowing of just £57.1 billion in 2019-2020.

"The coronavirus pandemic has had a substantial impact on the economy and subsequently on public sector borrowing and debt," the ONS said.—AFP ■

Diesel car sales down in Europe

DIESEL car sales have plummeted in Europe in the first quarter of the year, representing only 23.2 per cent of sales as opposed to 30 per cent during the same period last year, according to data released on Friday by car manufacturers.

"Hybrid electric vehicles made up 18.4 per cent of total passenger car sales in the EU, almost doubling their market share in a year," the European Automobile Manufacturers' Association said. "Demand for electrically-chargeable cars also increased during these three months: battery electric vehicles made up 5.7 per cent of all new cars, while plug-in hybrids accounted for 8.2 per cent of EU registrations."

The group said that from January to March of this year, diesel volumes fell 20.1 per cent compared to a year ago, to reach 593,559 cars sold across the European Union. The volumes fell nearly 30 per cent in Germany and Spain. — AFP ■

French fishermen prepare to block UK trucks in Brexit protest

MORE than a hundred French fishermen were readying on Thursday night to block trucks carrying fish from the UK, in a protest against a Brexit fishing deal they have dismissed as "a sham".

Protesters were spending the night at a checkpoint where lorries carrying fish from Britain into the northern French ports of Dunkirk and Calais are subject to hygiene checks, now that the UK has left the European Union.

The fishermen set fire to pallets and tyres to stay warm at the Boulogne-sur-Mer checkpoint, in France's busiest fishing hub.

No trucks from the UK were present, AFP journalists said on Thursday, with some having changed routes after hearing of the planned

British-flagged ships operated by Dutch companies, which often unload fish caught in UK waters at French ports, had also changed course towards Belgium, the harbour master's office told AFP.

A second group of protesters were settling in for the night in front of the Boulogne fish market.

"This night of action is a warning shot," said Olivier Lepretre, head of the regional fishing committee. "If nothing happens at the European level, we will shift up a gear". Lepretre said UK authorities had only granted licences to 22 out of the 120 boats seeking permission to fish between six and 12 nautical miles from the British coast.—AFP ■

Germany approves additional 60 bln euros to finance COVID-19 burden

GERMANY'S Bundestag, or lower house of the Parliament, passed a supplementary budget on Friday and approved an additional 60 billion euros (72 billion U.S. dollars) in debt.

The supplementary budget would provide "massive financial support for society as a whole," said Minister of Finance Olaf Scholz during his speech in the Bundestag.

According to a government statement, the additional debt would allow a record of around 240 billion euros in loans this year to finance the "enormous burdens" caused by the COVID-19 crisis.

"It is about moving forward, overcoming the pandemic," said Scholz, stressing that funds were also allocated for health protection and as state aid for companies and employees in the country.

The COVID-19 pandemic and the virus variants were still having a "significant impact on the economy and society," the government statement read. The additional budget is needed to create the "necessary financial framework" to counter the pandemic and its consequences. With this supplementary budget, Germany's total federal budget for 2021 now reached 547.7 billion euros, almost 50 billion euros more than originally estimated, according to the government. — Xinhua ■

Moscow to reduce Czech embassy staff in retaliatory move

MOSCOW said on Friday it would cap the number of the Czech embassy staff in a tit-for-tat move after the EU country announced it was expelling dozens of Russian diplomats.

As a result of the upcoming cuts, the Czech embassy in Moscow will lose 91 local hires, the foreign ministry said, in a move that could hamstring the operations of the EU country's diplomatic mission.

"The Czech authorities' irresponsible and provocative behaviour delivered a painful blow to their own diplomatic service," a foreign ministry spokesperson said in a statement to AFP.

Tensions have spiralled between the two countries after Prague accused Russian military intelligence of being behind a deadly explosion at an ammunition depot in eastern Czech Republic in 2014.

Prague has expelled 18 Russian embassy staff over the incident, with Moscow kicking out 20 Czech embassy staff in retaliation.

On Thursday, Prague said it would slap a ceiling on Russian diplomat numbers in line with the Vienna Convention on Diplomatic Relations, aiming at parity.

The Czech government said Russia would have until the end of May to withdraw another 63 embassy employees to reduce their numbers to the same level as those of the Czech embassy in Moscow.

The Russian foreign ministry spokesperson said that Moscow would also limit the Czech

Sri Lanka arrests Muslim leader over Easter attacks

SRI Lanka's police Saturday arrested a top Muslim leader and member of parliament in connection with the 2019 Easter Sunday attacks that killed 279 people as pressure to speed up the investigation mounted.

Detectives took Rishad Bathiudeen, leader of the All Ceylon Makkal Party, into custody under the Prevention of Terrorism Act (PTA), police spokesman Ajith Rohana said.

He said Bathiudeen and his brother Riyaaaj were arrested in pre-dawn raids on their homes in Colombo.

der the PTA based on circumstantial and scientific evidence that they had connections with the suicide bombers who carried out the attacks," Rohana said in a statement.

The arrests came three days after the head of Sri Lanka's Roman Catholic Church, Cardinal Malcolm, accused the government of allowing investigations to stall.

Nearly 200 people were arrested within days of the suicide attacks on hotels and churches by local Islamist extremists, but no one has yet been charged.

Ranjith, who led commemorations on the second anniversary of the Easter attacks on Wednesday, said he was "deeply saddened" by the lack of progress in the investigation. —AFP ■

Immersive museum opens to promote China's aerospace popularization

AN immersive and interactive museum opened to the public recently in central China's Hubei Province to promote aerospace science popularization, ahead of China's sixth Space Day.

The opening ceremony of the museum, No. 9 Universe Space Exploration Center, was held Wednesday as a part of a space science popularization week jointly organized by China National Space Administration (CNSA) news centre and the Jingzhou municipal government.

At the opening ceremony, CNSA news centre director Meng Hua said the great cause of aerospace begins with dreams and advances based on innovation. She hoped the museum could open a door for children to explore and sow the seeds of their love for science. —AFP ■

Airfares soar, private jets in demand as rich Indians flee Covid AIRFARES soared and demand for private jets boomed Friday as Indians who could afford it scrambled to escape a Covid surge before flights to the United Arab Emirates shut down.

All flights from the UAE to India -- one of the world's busiest air corridors -- will be suspended from Sunday as coronavirus cases in the South Asian nation reach record levels and overwhelm hospitals.

Price comparison websites showed one-way commercial flights from Mumbai to Dubai on Friday and Saturday costing as much as 80,000 rupees ($1,000), around 10 times the usual rate.

Tickets for the New Delhi to Dubai route were going for more than 50,000 rupees, five times the normal level.

No tickets were on offer from Sunday when the 10-day flight suspension comes into force. —AFP ■

Hopes fade for Indonesia submarine crew as oxygen dwindles

HOPES of rescuing dozens aboard a missing Indonesian submarine faded Saturday as its oxygen reserves were believed to have run out, with the US and Australia joining the hunt in waters off Bali.

While warships, planes and hundreds of military personnel took part in a frantic search for the KRI Nanggala 402, authorities had said the German-built craft was equipped with enough oxygen for only three days after losing power.

But that deadline passed early Saturday with still no sign of the stricken vessel and its 53 crew. "There's been no progress yet," said Navy spokesman Julius Widjojono.

"We are still combing the area."

The submarine -- one of five in Indonesia's fleet -- disappeared early Wednesday during live torpedo training exercises off the Indonesian holiday island.

Despite hopes for a miracle, an oil spill spotted where the submarine is thought to have submerged pointed to possible fuel-tank damage, fanning fears of a deadly disaster.

"The oil spill is a bad sign," said retired French vice-admiral Jean-Louis Vichot.

"If it's from the submarine, then it is probably the end."

There were concerns that the submarine could have been crushed by water pressure if it sank to depths reaching 700 metres (2,300 feet) -- well below what it was built to withstand.

Few explanations

The vessel was scheduled to conduct the training exercises when it asked for permission to dive. It lost contact shortly after.

Authorities have not offered possible explanations for the submarine's sudden disappearance or commented on questions about whether the decades-old vessel was overloaded. —AFP ■

Pope's envoy visits Mexican town rocked by cartel battle

POPE Francis's ambassador to Mexico on Friday visited a Mexican town terrorized by a bloody turf war between rival drug cartels, telling residents they were not forgotten.

Hundreds of faithful lined the streets of Aguililla, a flash-point in the violence-plagued western state of Michoacan, to greet Franco Coppola, the apostolic nuncio.

"Don't forget us. We have faith in our lord," they implored the Vatican envoy, following gun battles between rival gangs who have laid siege to their community. On Monday, a suspected member of Jalisco New Generation, one of the country's most powerful cartels, attacked security forces in the town with an explosive-laden drone, wounding two police officers, the government said. —AFP ■

France launches terror probe after woman stabbed to death near Paris

FRENCH prosecutors opened a terror probe on Friday after a woman working for the police was stabbed to death at a police station southwest of Paris by a Tunisian man who was then shot dead by the security forces.

The attack at the station in Rambouillet, a well-heeled usually peaceful commuter town about 60 kilometres from Paris, revived the trauma of a spate of deadly attacks last year in France blamed on Islamist radicals.

France's national anti-terrorism prosecutors said they had opened a terror investigation, also involving the DGSI domestic intelligence service, into the murder of a person holding public authority.

The attack took place in the secure entrance area of the station at around 2:20 pm (1220 GMT), a police source added, asking not to be named.

The 49-year-old woman, an administrative assistant who was returning from a lunch break, was stabbed in the throat twice and died of her wounds shortly afterwards, the source said. The attacker was fatally wounded when an officer opened fire on him. The murdered woman was the mother of two children aged 13 and 18.

Prime Minister Jean Castex, who arrived at the scene, denounced on Twitter a "barbaric act of boundless cruelty" against "a hero of daily life".

"I want to tell the police I share their emotion and their outrage," he added. —AFP ■

US ex-cop Chauvin to be sentenced June 16 for George Floyd murder

SACKED US police officer Derek Chauvin will be sentenced on June 16 for the murder of African American George Floyd in a case that sparked nationwide anti-racism protests.

The Hennepin County District Court in the Midwestern city of Minneapolis, where handcuffed Floyd died last May, said in its online schedule that the white ex-cop will be sentenced at 1:30 pm (1830 GMT).

The 45-year-old ex-officer -- who knelt on Floyd's neck for more than nine minutes -- faces up to 40 years in prison after being found guilty of all charges Tuesday over the death of the unarmed man.

The crime was recorded by a bystander whose video shocked the world, triggering mass protests across the United States and beyond, while also prompting a national reckoning on racial injustice and police brutality. —AFP ■

Over 120 wounded in east Jerusalem clashes

OVER 100 Palestinians and 20 Israeli police were wounded in overnight clashes in annexed east Jerusalem, medics and police said Friday, as tensions mount over a police ban on gatherings and videos of attacks on youths.

The violence broke out outside one of the entrances to the walled Old City where far-right Jews had completed a march, during which participants harassed Palestinians and chanted "death to Arabs".

There have been nightly disturbances in the area since the start of Ramadan on April 13 with Palestinians complaining that police were blocking access to the promenade around the walls, a popular gathering place for Palestinians after the end of the daytime Ramadan fast.

The Palestinian Red Crescent said it had treated at least 105 people, with some 20 of them hospitalized. Israeli police said 20 officers were wounded, three of whom were taken to hospital.

They said "hundreds of rioters began disrupting the order violently including throwing stones and objects at forces" stationed near the Old City. Tensions were high in Jerusalem after a series of videos posted in recent days showing young Arabs attacking ultra-Orthodox Jews, with Jewish extremists taking to the street bullying Arabs in nightly confrontations. —AFP ■

Aung La to rematch De Ridder on 29 April as Bigdash out

THE Burmese Python Aung La N Sang yesterday accepted a rematch against his old rival Reinier De Ridder. According to the ONE Championship, his original competitor Vitaly Bigdash has withdrawn from the ONE Championship Light heavyweight showdown, which is scheduled to hold on 29 April in Singapore.

“Unfortunately, the Russian athlete Vitaly Bigdash tested positive for COVID-19 and has been forced to withdraw from the “ONE on TNT IV” main event tilt.

Taking his place will be the last man to beat the Myanmar sports icon – undefeated ONE Middleweight World Champion Reinier “The Dutch Knight” De Ridder.

The Burmese Python” looked sharp on the feet. However, the Dutch grappler quickly took him to the canvas and ultimately submitted him in the first round,” ONE Championship officials said.

Aung La also stated on his social media ahead of the fight.

“Hello all my beloved fans, I’m now in Singapore for my Light Heavyweight Championship title defence next week. I’ll try my best to make everyone proud. May you all be peaceful,” Aung La N Sang said.

In October 2020, De Ridder challenged Aung La N Sang for his middleweight belt, and Aung La lost his middleweight champion title.

This time, Aung La N Sang got his unexpected chance to prove that he is still the legend of the Light heavyweight category of ONE Championship. —GNLM ■

Inter’s ‘orchestra’ search for right key as Serie A title approaches

Inter were held against Napoli and Spezia but maintain a 10-point advantage as nearest rivals AC Milan lost last time out and next travel to Lazio. PHOTO: AFP

ANTONIO Conte compared his jittery Inter Milan team to an orchestra as they approach a first Serie A title in over a decade having endured back-to-back draws before travelling to Hellas Verona this weekend.

Inter were held against Napoli and Spezia but maintain a 10-point advantage as nearest rivals AC Milan lost last time out and next travel to Lazio.

“It’s inevitable to feel a bit of pressure,” said Conte, “especially as lots of our players are challenging for something important for the first time.” Inter won their 18th and last Serie A crown in 2010, the year they also won the Champions League under Jose Mourinho. They come up against a Hellas Verona who are stuck midtake with just one win in their last seven games. “We must live with the pressure, but we’re an orchestra that knows what to play,” said Conte.

Second-placed Milan have a difficult run to the finish line with games against Lazio, Juventus and Atalanta as they target a return to the Champions League.

Just three points separate Milan from Napoli in fifth, with sixth-placed Lazio also in the running with their postponed game against Torino still to be played. —AFP ■

Djokovic hopes COVID-19 vaccination will not be compulsory WORLD number one Novak Djokovic said Friday he hoped it would not become compulsory for players to be vaccinated against coronavirus and insisted he won’t reveal whether he will opt for a jab. “I am still a supporter of freedom of choice,” Djokovic said after reaching the semi-finals of the ATP tournament in Belgrade. It was in the Serbian capital last summer where Djokovic, as well as a number of other players, tested positive for Covid-19 after organising a controversial exhibition event.

On whether or not he will be vaccinated to guarantee entry to tournaments, 33-year-old Djokovic refused to commit himself. “I will keep my decision to myself, I think it’s a private, intimate thing. I do not want to be labelled as someone who is for or against vaccination”.

“I hope it does not become compulsory.” On court, Djokovic stayed on course for a third Belgrade title with a comfortable 6-1, 6-3 quarter-final win over compatriot Miomir Kecmanovic. Djokovic, the 2009 and 2011 champion at the event which is played at a venue which carries his name, will face either Russia’s Aslan Karatsev or Gianluca Mager of Italy for a place in the final.

In their first meeting, Djokovic broke his 21-year-old opponent’s first service game and repeated the feat for a 5-1 lead in the opener. —AFP ■

The image was the first of Woods since he suffered serious right leg injuries in a one-car crash February 23 near Los Angeles.

Two months later, the 15-time major winner appeared alongside his dog in the image, taken in his home practice facility in Jupiter, Florida.

Woods said that work was progressing faster upon his three-hole backyard practice course than he was progressing in his recovery.

“My course is coming along faster than I am,” Woods wrote. “But it’s nice to have a faithful rehab partner, man’s best friend.”

Woods, 45, has won 82 US PGA Tour titles, level with Sam Snead for the all-time record.

Before Woods was injured in the crash, he was working to overcome a back operation in time to play at the Masters earlier this month. Woods has released no timetable regarding how extensive his injuries are or when he might walk normally again, much less return to his golfing career.

Police found Woods was driving nearly twice the legal speed limit when his SUV went out of control and rolled several times before stopping.

Woods was hospitalized for weeks before returning home to Florida last month.

He underwent hours of surgery to repair a shattered lower right leg and ankle, including the insertion of a rod into his tibia and screws and pins being used to stabilize his ankle.

Woods had undergone a series of back operations before making a fairytale comeback that saw him win the 2019 Masters for his first major title since the 2008 US Open at Torrey Pines. —AFP ■
