High influx of Chinese potatoes brings down prices amid low output of local potatoes

THE supply of potatoes from Shan State (Aungban area) has decreased since October. However, the prices of potatoes did not reach a record price like onions as Chinese onions have been flooding the Yangon markets. The competitive market benefits the consumers, Ma Khin Kyaw Lay from Hinethaya Township, told the Global New Light of Myanmar (GNLM).

On 11 October, and 12 November 2022, there was no entry of Shan potatoes to the Bayintnaung market. That being so, the market price was not set then. The domestic market sees an excess supply of Chinese potatoes and a small supply of Shan potatoes these days.

On 5 December, around 40,000 visses of Chinese potatoes and 6,000 visses of Shan potatoes flowed into the Yangon market. The wholesale prices were K1,600 per viss for new Chinese potatoes, K2,150 for old Chinese, K1,600 per viss for Shan potatoes. As Chinese potatoes having moisture content are required to be separated and processed, new Chinese onions that entered the Yangon market these days are of good quality. A bag of potatoes weighs 25 visses, Ko Aung, a dealer who sends potatoes to regions outside Yangon, told the GNLM.

On 15 and 16 November 2022, Chinese potatoes were priced at K2,500-K2,550 per viss in the wholesale market. On 19 January 2022, a truckload of Chinese potatoes was valued at K3.7 million, while the wholesale price of Chinese potatoes was only K1,350 per viss and local potatoes fetched K1,750-K2,200 per viss. On 20 June 2022, the prices stood at K1,500 per viss for Bangladesh potatoes, K1,700 for Chinese potatoes and K1,600 for Shan potatoes. On 16 September, Shan potatoes were worth K1,500-K2,300 per viss whereas Chinese potatoes were priced at K2,450-K2,500 per viss. About 36,000 visses of Chinese potatoes on 11 October, 54,000 visses on 9 November and 48,000 visses on 12 November were delivered to the Yangon markets. There was no supply of local potatoes in those days. There are two types of potatoes from Heho and Aungban in Shan State in the domestic markets. Potatoes from the Sinphyukyun area usually flow into Yangon markets for three months in summer. The prices of Chinese potatoes are lower than those from Shan State and Sinphyukyun area at that time. Nonetheless, Chinese potatoes are offered higher than Shan potatoes in the second half of the year.

On 11 November 2022, Chinese potatoes were estimated at K1,950-K2,350 per viss, whereas Shan potatoes fetched K1,900-2,150 per viss. Shortly thereafter, the prices dipped. There is news speculating about the possible low supply of Chinese onions as Chinese goods are hard to enter the border market in recent days. The potato warehouses stated that the price of potatoes is expected to increase on low supply.

The competitive market benefits the consumers, Ma Khin Kyaw Lay from Hinethaya Township, told the Global New Light of Myanmar (GNLM).

The market price of Kyukok garlic is beating that of Shan garlic in the domestic garlic market. Although there is a price gap of around K4,000 per viss (a viss equals 1.6 kilogrammes) in Kyukok garlic, the price of Shan garlic has ranged between the minimum of K3,000 and the maximum of K4,200 per viss in 2022. Changes in the Shan garlic price are not visible despite the wild fluctuation of the Kyukok garlic price in 2022. The domestic market is mainly dealing in garlic from Shan State and Kyukok garlic entering from the border. There is Bamar garlic in the Mandalay market. However, the yield is very low and only available in the region of its origin.

Two types of Shan garlic are garlic from Taunggyi and garlic from Aungban. The price of Aungban garlic is a little higher than that of Taunggyi garlic and has a great demand in the Yangon market. Kyukok garlic entering from the border has a bigger size than the big garlic from the Shan State and it has earned a strong market share for two decades, Ko Myint Aye, a dealer in the Bayintnaung market told the GNLM.

In the years when Kyukok garlic started to enter the garlic market, it had to compete with Shan garlic for the market share for a few years, a dealer commented. Shan garlic is difficult to peel even though its quality surpassed Kyukok garlic. Thus, Kyukok garlic is widely used in restaurants and is able to capture its market share.

On 10 January 2022, the wholesale price of Aungban garlic from Shan State reached K1,500-K2,000 per viss and that of Kyukok garlic fetched K4,800-K5,100 per viss.

New Shan garlic entered the Yangon market with K2,200-K2,900 per viss on 13 February. On the same day, the old Shan garlic was priced at K1,200-K3,000 per viss and Kyukok garlic at K3,800-K3,900 per viss.

The price of Kyukok garlic started to rise in March 2022 and hit a record high of K6,700-K7,000 per viss on 9 March. Meanwhile, the wholesale price of Shan garlic was only K2,700-K3,700 per viss. The Kyukok garlic price dropped starting in April. The price drop continued on 2 June, the day when new Kyukok garlic entered the market, with K2,700 per viss of new Kyukok garlic and K2,800 per viss of old Kyukok garlic. The wholesale price of Shan garlic fetched K3,800-K3,500 per viss on that day.

On 2 July, the market price of Shan garlic soared to K2,200-K3,700 per viss and K2,600-K2,800 per viss. However, the prices of Kyukok garlic and Shan garlic soared to K5,000 per viss and K2,700-K4,200 per viss respectively on 1 September.

From that day onwards, the Kyukok garlic price slumps further and reached K3,300 per viss on 5 December. Shan garlic was pegged at K2,800-K3,900 per viss with little price change. Therefore, the Kyukok garlic price is high whereas the Shan garlic price is low in the domestic market. — TWAC/CT

Myanmar watermelon export to China raises its head

MYANMAR’s watermelon export to China through Muse border post is on the rise, according to Muse fruit traders.

The prevailing prices per kilogramme stood at 1-1.8 Yuan for watermelon 855 variety, 2.2 Yuan for Taiwan watermelon, 2.2 Yuan for seedless watermelon and 2.5-3.5 Yuan for muskmelon.

The ease of lockdown in some big cities in China prompted traders to get into business again so Myanmar’s watermelon market has become active again, traders said.

Myanmar’s watermelon and muskmelon are underpriced owing to China’s lockdown spurred by COVID cases. Consequently, the trade was slow-moving, stressed the traders.

Approximately 40 truckloads of watermelons and muskmelons are daily sent to China at the present time.

At present, Myanmar’s watermelons are mainly shipped to China. In a bid to contain the spread of coronavirus at the border, China imposed lockdowns in some areas, resulting in additional costs. Furthermore, the prices are extremely lower than last year’s rate.

Last year, the COVID-19 restrictions hindered Myanmar’s watermelon and muskmelon exports to China. Chinese Customs Regulation increased delay. Long delays of trucks caused harm to watermelon quality and only one in five trucks heading to China remained undamaged with quality watermelons.

The traders are observing delivery time, price and profitability as they are perishable fruit, while they are trying to explore new markets in addition to China.

On 1 April, Nantaw and Sinphyu border posts were suspended in the wake of COVID-19 impacts. China has closed down the major border crossing Mang Wein from 30 March 2021 following the COVID-19 cases in Myanmar.

On 8 July 2021, the two-remainding cross-border posts Kyinsankyaw and Panseng were suspended. As a result of this, the border trade between Myanmar and China was completely halted.

Among Sino-Myanmar border posts, the Kyinsankyaw border resumed operations on 26 November on a trial run. At present, Myanmar daily delivers rice, broken rice, rubber, various beans and pulses, fishery products, chili pepper and other food commodities to China through Kyinsankyaw by 70 trucks and building materials, electrical appliances, household goods and industrial raw materials are also imported into the country by 30 trucks. — NN/EMM

Palm oil wholesale reference price jumps by over K200 per viss

THE wholesale reference rate of palm oil in the Yangon market climbed over K206 per viss (a viss equals 1.6 kilogrammes) from last week’s rate, according to the Supervisory Committee on edible oil import and distribution.

The price stood at K4,425 per viss in the week ending 4 December. Then, the reference price has gradually risen to K4,639 per viss in the week from 5 December to 11 December, indicating an increase of over K206 per viss from last week’s price.

The Supervisory Committee on edible oil import and distribution under the Ministry of Commerce has been closely observing the FOB prices in Malaysia and Indonesia including transport costs, tariffs and banking services, and issuing the wholesale market reference rate for edible oil on a weekly basis.

Despite the reference price, the current market price is too high.

If those edible oil retailers and wholesalers are found overcharging, storing inventory intentionally and attempting unscrupulous action to manipulate the market, they will face legal action under the Specific Goods Tax Law, MoC released a statement.

The Ministry of Commerce is striving for consumers not to worry over the supply of edible oil. The ministry is also trying to secure edible oil sufficiency, supervises the market to offer a reasonable price to consumers and maintain price stability.

At present, mobile market trucks operated by oil importing companies, in coordination with Myanmar Edible Oil Dealers’ Association, were back to business in some townships on 17 July to offer palm oil at a subsidized rate. They sell palm oil at K4,400 per viss to consumers directly. However, there are limited sources of supply although they directly sell palm oil at a reference rate depending on the volume quota.

The domestic consumption of edible oil is estimated at 1 million tonnes per year. The local cooking oil production is just about 400,000 tonnes. To meet the oil sufficiency in the domestic market, about 700,000 tonnes of cooking oil are yearly imported through Malaysia and Indonesia.

Myawady border trade totals $1.456 billion in about eight months

THE value of border trade via the Myawady border post between 1 April and 30 November hit US$1.456 billion, according to the statistics released by the Ministry of Commerce.

The figures showed a drastic drop of $148.545 million recorded in the corresponding period last year. The trade policy changes and political instability in the border areas resulted in an extreme fall in export to Thailand. The border trade between Myanmar and Thailand through Myawady, Tachileik, Kawthoung, Myeik, Htee Kee, Mawtaung and Meikai amounted to $3.452 billion, which is an increase of $451.342 million from the year-ago period.

Myanmar sent agricultural products (chilli pepper, onion, rice powder, turmeric, dried leaf buds, coffee bean, green gram, rubber, cinnamon, macadamia nuts in shell, plum from Bago and peanuts), fishery products (anchovy, clam, hilsa, crab, shrimp and other fish) and finished industrial goods on a Cutting-Making and Packaging basis (men’s sweaters, women’s shirts and other clothes) on 27 and 28 November through Myawady border trade zone to Thailand. Onions, rice powder, chilli pepper, coffee beans, peanut, rubber, green gram and fishery products are the main export items to Thailand.

Thailand’s demand for Myanmar’s kitchen groceries has risen as it resumed the tourism businesses in the post-COVID period and the restaurants and food businesses widely used them.

Fishery products are directly sent to Bangkok, Thailand, through Mae Sot. The fast and fresh delivery service is the priority.

About 33-34 trucks are leaving for Thailand. The authorities are inspecting the goods onboard with the lists in the declaration form. The cloth rolls, construction materials, industrial raw materials, pharmaceuticals, motorcycle parts, footwear, clothes, fruits, food products, cosmetics, gas, lubricants, household goods, foodstuff, bicycles, stationery, auto parts, tiles, foodstuffs, fertilizer and electronic devices are imported with 161 trucks.

A batch was exchanged for K67 in early November and K79 at the end of November. The exchange rate fluctuation influenced the import volume.

MALAYSIA will work towards ensuring that trade remains a key growth driver as the Southeast Asian country seeks to boost its economic performance, a Malaysian official said here on Sunday. Besides a focus on trade, moves will be made to increase investor confidence and ensure the implementation of international trade agreements to be of real value and advantage to participants in the Malaysian supply chain, particularly the micro, small and medium enterprises, International Trade and Industry Minister Tengku Zafrul Tengku Abdul Aziz said in a statement.

He also proposed the creation of a special investment fund to attract more high-value-added investments that will generate higher-paid professional employment opportunities.

“The target industries include the E&E (electrical and electronic products) industry which includes the development of applications based on radio frequency and Bluetooth technology for the automotive industry, attracting investors to Malaysia’s E&E sector, and the systematic development of the medical devices industry,” he said. Other technology-based industries that will be focused on include the aerospace industry, the chemical and petrochemical industry, nanotechnology, health technology, and smart manufacturing.” —Xinhua

Viet Nam’s textiles, garments export up 18.5% in 11 months

VIET Nam earned more than 34.5 billion US dollars from exporting textiles and garments in the first 11 months of this year, up 18.5 per cent from the same period last year, according to the country’s Ministry of Industry and Trade on Monday.

In November alone, however, Viet Nam’s textile and garment export decreased eight per cent year-on-year to around 2.8 billion dollars.

Inflation, currency devaluation and decrease in purchasing power of major countries are among the risks for Viet Nam’s textile and garment sector, local newspaper Viet Nam News quoted President of the Viet Nam Textile and Apparel Association Vu Duc Giang as saying.

Those factors have forced Vietnamese textile and garment enterprises to seek and diversify their export markets. Despite difficulties, many businesses are still growing in production, he said.

The textile and garment industry would likely gain the export target of 42-43 billion US dollars this year, he said.

November deliveries of Tesla’s Shanghai factory hit new monthly high

TESLA’s Shanghai Gigafactory delivered 100,291 vehicles in November, hitting a fresh monthly high, the US carmaker has said.

In the first 11 months of this year, the Shanghai factory delivered more than 650,000 vehicles.

The factory’s January-November deliveries far exceeded last year’s total of 484,130, said Cui Dongshu, secretary-general of the China Passenger Car Association.

The Gigafactory’s annual sales for 2022 could hopefully hit 750,000 units, Cui added.

The localization rate of the industrial chain of Tesla’s Shanghai Gigafactory has now exceeded 95 per cent, helping China’s new energy vehicle industry to develop a world-leading integrated industrial structure and robust consumption potential, said Tao Lin, vice-president of Tesla.

Cui estimated that from January through November, China’s new energy vehicle sales exceeded 5.7 million units, while for the whole of 2022, the production and sales of such vehicles could top 6.5 million.
UN agency seeks FIFA deal for World Cup labour rights role

AFTER fierce criticism of the Qatar World Cup, the head of the UN labour agency on Sunday pressed FIFA’s president for a greater role scrutinizing future World Cup hosts.

International Labour Organization director-general Gilbert Houngbo told AFP before meeting with Gianni Infantino that Qatar has been a victim of “double standards” and has made significant progress but more needs to be done for its migrant labourers.

The ILO is seeking a role carrying out “due diligence” on future candidate countries, Houngbo said in an interview. FIFA has faced increased pressure after years of criticism of labour rights in Qatar, ranging from controversy over deaths on mega construction projects to unpaid salaries and working in the Gulf state’s fierce summer heat.

Houngbo said he believes “FIFA is very determined to make sure that for future World Cups, or the next attribution, the social question, the question of respect of worker standards, are critical questions in the decision”. —AFP

Iran accuses US of “seeking to cause chaos” to force concessions in nuke talks

THE Iranian foreign minister on Sunday accused the United States, along with some other Western countries, of “seeking to cause chaos” in Iran to force its concessions in the talks on reviving a 2015 nuclear deal.

Hossein Amir-Abdollahian made the accusation at a joint press conference with his Serbian counterpart Ivica Dacic following their meeting in Serbia’s capital Belgrade.

“We do not let anybody incite riots and terrorism in our country,” he was quoted by the Iranian Students’ News Agency as saying.

Protests have erupted in Iran after 22-year-old Mahsa Amini died in a Tehran hospital on 16 September, a few days after her collapse at a police station. Iran has accused the United States and some other Western countries of “inciting riots and supporting terrorists” in the country.

Speaking of his recent phone call with EU foreign policy chief Josep Borrell, Amir-Abdollahian said, “Only a lasting agreement capable of safeguarding Iranian people’s interests would be valuable to Iran.” Iran signed the nuclear deal, officially known as the Joint Comprehensive Plan of Action (JCPOA), with world powers in July 2015, agreeing to put some curbs on its nuclear programme in return for the removal of the sanctions on the country. The United States, however, pulled out of the deal in 2018 and reimposed its sanctions on Iran, prompting the latter to drop some of its nuclear commitments under the deal. —Xinhua

Trump talk of ending constitutional rules draws sharp rebukes

DONALD Trump’s suggestion that the United States disregard rules and regulations including “those found in the Constitution” drew scathing rebukes this weekend from politicians of both parties, with a top Democrat calling it “a danger to our democracy”.

What many saw as a bizarre proposal from a singularly unconventional former president came in his latest social media post hammering away at baseless conspiracy theories about the 2020 election, which he lost to Joe Biden.

Given what he claimed was “massive and widespread fraud and deception” involving technology companies and the Democratic Party, “do you throw the Presidential Election Results of 2020 OUT and declare the RIGHTFUL WINNER, or do you have a NEW ELECTION?” —AFP

W African leaders agree to create regional force

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The West African leaders agreed on Sunday to create a regional force to intervene against jihadist and in the event of coups, a senior official said.

Leaders of the Economic Community of West African States had decided to act to “take care of our own security in the region”, Omar Alieu Touray, president of the ECOWAS commission, told journalists at a summit in Serbia’s capital Belgrade.

“We do not let anybody incite riots and terrorism in our country,” he was quoted by the Iranian Students’ News Agency as saying.

W African leaders agreed to create regional force

WEST African leaders agreed on Sunday to create a regional force to intervene against jihadism and in the event of coups, a senior official said.

Leaders of the Economic Community of West African States had decided to act to “take care of our own security in the region”, Omar Alieu Touray, president of the ECOWAS commission, told journalists at a summit in Serbia’s capital Belgrade.

“They are “determined to establish a regional force that will intervene in the event of need, whether this is in the area of security, terrorism and restore constitutional order in member countries,” he added.

Mali, Guinea and Burkina Faso have all been hit by military coups in the last two years.

Several countries in the region are also suffering from the spread of jihadism, including Mali, Burkina Faso and Niger, and southwards to the Gulf of Guinea.

National armies, largely powerless against the jihadist forces operating across borders, have been cooperating with external actors such as the UN, France and Russia.

But Touray said this decision would “restructure our security architecture”.

The modalities of the planned regional force will be considered by defence chiefs in the second half of January, 2023, Touray said.

The funding of the force must also be decided, but the ECOWAS official stressed that such an operation could not be solely dependent on voluntary contributions. —AFP

Putin joins tech giant Yandex

A long-time ally of President Vladimir Putin, Alexei Kudrin, said Monday he will be joining Yandex as the Kremlin seeks to tighten its grip on Russia’s top technology giant.

The announcement from the former finance minister comes after months of instability at the internet company, with employees fleeing due to the military offensive in Ukraine and its founder hit by Western sanctions.

Russia’s top internet company and most popular search engine is being divided into Russian and international businesses because of Western penalties.

Analysts say that the move will cement government control over what was once seen as one of Russia’s top success stories.

Last week Kudrin announced he was stepping down as head of Russia’s Audit Chamber to focus on private initiatives with “significant impact on people”.

“I accepted an offer from Yandex to become a corporate development adviser,” Kudrin said on Monday.

He added that in his role he will work to “ensure the long-term and sustainable development of the company on all markets, including international ones”.

Kudrin is expected to oversee the operations of the restructured company, while its founder, Arkady Volozh, who was hit by EU sanctions in June, will develop a number of Yandex businesses outside Russia.

In recent years Russian authorities have steadily ramped up control over the internet — once considered the last bastion of free speech. —AFP
More people flee after eruption of Indonesia’s Mount Semeru

RESCUERS evacuated more people Monday from nearby villages after the eruption of Indonesia’s Mount Semeru, with officials warning of danger from cooling lava despite less activity from the volcano.

More than 2,400 villagers have now fled their homes and taken shelter in 11 evacuation centres after the highest mountain on the country’s main island of Java erupted early morning Sunday.

“The military, police, local disaster and village officials keep evacuating people in Cura Klobutan where the hot ash cloud and cold lava might travel,” Abdul Muhari, a spokesman for Indonesia’s disaster mitigation agency, told local television.

“So far the total number of evacuues is 2,489.”

Officials have announced a state of emergency for the next two weeks and authorities have been distributing free masks to protect against ash in the air while setting up public kitchens for evacuees.

On Monday morning, dozens of evacuees in Lumajang district where Semeru is located ventured back to their ash-covered homes to retrieve important belongings, before returning to shelters, according to an AFP journalist.

Some shepherded livestock while others carried appliances such as TVs and refrigerators as the volcano spewed ash in the background.

Subekti said visual observation of Semeru on Monday morning indicated less intense volcanic activity but he warned of potential danger from lava flows that had cooled after heavy rain.

“What we worry about is economic activities such as sand mining. We want to make sure the route where the hot ash cloud and the cold lava might travel is completely free of activity,” he said.

The government’s alert status indicating danger from the volcano was raised to its highest level Sunday. It had previously been at its second-highest level since a major eruption last December.

Last year’s eruption killed 51 people and damaged more than 5,000 homes while forcing nearly 10,000 people to seek refuge.—AFP

North Korea fires artillery barrage into buffer zone: Seoul

NORTH Korea fired a barrage of artillery shells into a maritime buffer zone on Monday, Seoul’s military said, the latest in a series of launches by an increasingly belligerent Pyongyang.

About 130 artillery rounds were simultaneously fired at 14:59 pm (0559 GMT) from two separate sites, one on North Korea’s east coast and one on the west coasts, the South’s Joint Chiefs of Staff said in a statement.

Seoul’s military said the barrage was a “clear violation” of the 2018 agreement between the North and South that established the buffer zone in a bid to reduce tensions.

It said none of the shells crossed the Northern Limit Line, the de facto maritime border between the two countries.

The military said it had issued “several warnings” over the barrage, without giving any further details.

“Our military is strengthening its readiness posture in preparation for emergencies while tracking and monitoring related developments under close cooperation between South Korea and the United States,” it added. —AFP

Japanese to put off tax hike to cover increased defence spending

JAPAN plans to put off for now a tax hike intended to finance a planned increase in the country’s defence spending, a government source said Sunday.

The government will continue to study measures to secure a stable source of revenue as Prime Minister Fumio Kishida has called for raising defence spending to two per cent of gross domestic product in fiscal 2027 from the current one per cent.

The government will set the general direction of the plan but is likely to forego deciding on a specific tax increase when it compiles the initial budget for fiscal 2023 in late December, the source said.

It intends to prioritize cutting non-defence outlays because some Liberal Democratic Party lawmakers oppose raising taxes that would directly hit consumers and companies, the source said. —Kyodo

Indonesia plans to build nuclear power plant, seeks investors

INDONESIA aims to develop a nuclear power plant in 2039 to achieve net zero emissions and support domestic needs for energy, the country’s Nuclear Energy Regulatory Agency (BAPETEN) said here Sunday.

The agency’s Director for Nuclear Installation and Material Control, Haendra Subekti, said in a statement that to realize the target, Indonesia is currently looking for investors to help finance the plant’s construction.

“We have drafted the regulations on the nuclear infrastructure safety, preparing the location for the plant and formulating the trial operation. All of these have been nearly completed,” Subekti said, adding that the location of the nuclear power plant will not be in earthquake-prone areas.—Xinhua

Israeli survey finds “significant gaps” in manufacturing’s readiness for cyberattacks

AN annual survey has found “significant gaps” between Israeli manufacturing companies’ cybersecurity preparedness and the government recommendations.

The survey tried to see if the cyber preparedness in the Israeli manufacturing sector fits with the practices recommend ed by the Israel National Cyber Directorate (INC), the Manufacturers Association of Israel, which co-launched the survey with INC, said in a statement on Sunday.

Among the 126 surveyed companies, 99 per cent had no up-to-date or sound cybersecurity programme, making them significantly vulnerable to cyberattacks, and only 35 per cent performed a breach test for the corporate networks connected to the internet, the INC statement said.

In addition, although 99 per cent of the surveyed companies kept some kind of backup, only a third performed remote backups and recovery practices this year.

The companies in question have some 38,000 employees and an annual turnover of 19.5 billion shekels (5.72 billion US dollars) in total, according to the statement.—Xinhua
Croatia reached World Cup quarters with shoot-out victory over Japan

CROATIA reached the quarter-finals of the World Cup on Monday with a dramatic 3-1 penalty shoot-out win over Japan after a tense last-16 clash ended 1-1.

Mario Pasalic struck the winning penalty to send Croatia through after Ivan Perisic had pulled Croatia level in the 55th minute of normal time following Daizen Maeda’s opener for Japan just before the break.

Croatia now face either Brazil or South Korea in the last eight and continued midfield icon Luka Modric’s stay at his fourth and likely final World Cup. Japan’s bid to reach the last eight for the first time in their history came to a crushing end after another display of the sort which saw off Spain and Germany on their way to topping Group E.

However they could not claim one more big European scalp in the shape of the 2018 finalists and go home in the second round, as they did four years ago, after having three of their penalties saved.

Japan could easily have been ahead within three minutes when Shojo Taniguchi glanced a header wide from point-blank range, and 10 minutes later Daizen Maeda came close to turning in Junya Ito’s brilliantly placed low ball from the right flank.—AFP

Luis Enrique set Spain ‘homework’ of 1,000 penalties ahead of World Cup

SPAIN coach Luis Enrique set each of his players the “homework” of practicing 1,000 penalties before the World Cup, saying he was convinced they were not a lottery.

The 2010 world champions face Morocco in the last 16 on Tuesday, with the threat of extra-time and penalties looming in the knockout phase of the tournament in Qatar.

Spain beat Switzerland on penalties at last year’s Euro 2020 but were eliminated on spot-kicks by Italy in the semi-finals.

“Over a year ago, in one of the Spain camps, I told them they had to get here with at least 1,000 penalties taken,” Luis Enrique said on Monday.

“I imagine that they have done their homework. If you wait until getting here to practice penalties... (it won’t be enough).”

The Spaniard insisted spot kicks were “not a lottery”.

“It’s a moment of maximum tension, a time to show your nerve, and that you can shoot the penalty in the way you have decided, if you have trained it a thousand times,” he said. “It says a lot about each player. It’s trainable, manageable, how you manage the tension. It’s increasingly less luck — the goalkeepers have more influence.

“We have a very good goalkeeper, any of the three can do very well in this situation. Every time we finish training I see a lot of players taking penalties.”

The Spain coach also responded to criticism over the team’s style of play — their commitment to playing out from defence sometimes puts them under pressure in dangerous areas.—AFP

PORTUGAL coach Fernando Santos said he was unimpressed with Cristiano Ronaldo’s behaviour after the forward reacted angrily when substituted during the team’s final group game at the World Cup in Qatar.
